Autumn Beauty

As the days grow shorter in fall, corn stalks change from the lush green of summer to the familiar crisp brown of autumn. In comparison to the flaming foliage of neighboring woodlands, the corn looks singularly drab. But then, the life of the plant is over, and one of the major crops of area farmers has ripened to satisfaction with dry corn now being harvested for the winter feeding of cattle. In the late afternoon sun a cornfield next to Lewis Road, Limerick Township forms a stark silhouette for the observant eye. (Mercury Photo by Tom Kelly).

Sirica Delays Nixon Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — After hearing reports that former President Richard M. Nixon's health is rapidly improving, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica delayed a decision Thursday on whether to order Nixon to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Sirica said he would prefer that Nixon testify personally in court rather than give depositions in California if he continues to recover from a chronic phlebitis condition.

Sirica said he would reach a decision in three weeks on the issue of Nixon's testimony. His ruling came after the prosecutors played the first White House tape recording relating to the Watergate cover-up.

At the hearing, Nixon sought to be excused from testifying. His lawyer, Herbert J. Miller, said he would have a new health report and "I'm sure it will be favorable."

The hearing was held without the jury present.

Sirica also asked lawyers for the defendants and the prosecution to submit the names of doctors who could make an independent examination of the former President at his seaside estate in San Clemente, Calif.

The prosecutors and defendant John D. Ehrlichman have subpoenaed Nixon, but his testimony is not likely to be required for several weeks.

The special Watergate prosecutors say they will question Nixon in the courtroom only if Ehrlichman is successful with his subpoena.

Pottstown Schools Will Open Hour Later on Monday

All schools in the Pottstown District will begin classes an hour later Monday, and the late starts are having an effect on private schools in the area.

Students in the Pottstown School District, including those in basic skills and special education classes, will begin an hour later, according to officials, because of a special teacher function set for the first hour.

Theodore Derr, director of curriculum for the district, said elementary students will begin classes 10 a.m. Monday, intermediate school students will start 9:30 a.m., and junior and senior high school students 9 a.m.

And the school buses which take those students to school will run on altered schedules, affecting parochial school students.

Because the buses will run later, students who use the buses to get to classes at St. Aloysius Elementary School and St. Pius X High School will be without transportation.

Derr said it will be the students' parents' responsibility to find transportation for their children for this one

HAPPY ROCKEFELLER

Rockefeller's Wife Has Breast Removed

NEW YORK (AP) — In an all but unbelievable coincidence, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller's wife, Happy, had a cancerous breast removed Thursday, just three weeks after President Ford's wife underwent a similar operation.

Doctors said preliminary examination indicated the cancer had not spread, which would give Mrs. Rockefeller a 90 per cent chance of recovery.

"You won't believe what I'm going to tell you," Rockefeller told newsmen. He then revealed that his 48-year-old wife was undergoing a mastectomy of the left breast at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, where his brother, Laurence Rockefeller, is board chairman.

Rockefeller indicated that his wife's discovery of a telltale lump in her breast was accelerated by the wide publicity surrounding the removal Sept. 28 of Mrs. Betty Ford's right breast.

"I suppose . . . Mrs. Ford has made everybody a little more conscious," Rockefeller told a news conference in his mid-Manhattan office, before leaving for the hospital on East 68th Street.

The family crisis came amid a widening political crisis occasioned by Ford's nomination of Rockefeller Aug. 20 to be vice president.

Pending in the Congress are further hearings, centering on Rockefeller's $1.7 million in gifts bestowed on associates.

As relayed by her surgeon, Dr. Jerome Urban, Mrs. Rockefeller's first words as she came out from under the anesthetic were: "Where am I?"

Nixon Files Suit to Gain Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon filed suit Thursday seeking to force the government to give him possession and control of millions of tapes and documents accumulated during his five-and-one-half years in the White House.

Nixon alleged that the government has failed to live up to an agreement for the swift transfer of his presidential materials to California.

"Such records are still located at the White House and, despite requests, have not at this time been sent to the former President," the suit said.

Named as defendants are Arthur F. Sampson, head of the General Services Administration; Philip W. Buchen, counsel to President Ford; and H. Stuart Knight, director of the Secret Service.

Nixon asked the court to order the three defendants not to produce or disclose any of the presidential materials to anyone other than himself.

On Sept. 6 Nixon and Sampson signed an agreement in which the former president agreed to house all his presidential materials with the GSA in facilities near Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., home.

The suit alleged that Buchen interfered with Nixon's rights under the agreement when he agreed not to transfer any of the material without the prior approval of the Special Watergate Prosecutor.

It also alleged that the failure to live up to the agreement has impaired Nixon's access to the material and also his ability to comply with a subpoena from John D. Ehrlichman.

Ford Denies Deal Made for Pardon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a historic appearance on a congressional committee witness stand, President Ford Thursday flatly denied that he had made any "deal" to pardon Richard M. Nixon in return for his resignation.

In his testimony, which he said he hoped would not become a precedent for violating the confidentiality of the Oval Office, Ford repeated his belief that acceptance of the pardon had amounted to an admission of guilty on Nixon's part.

He also repeated his belief that for Nixon to have been the first President in history to resign in "shame and disgrace," rather than face virtually certain impeachment removal from office, was punishment enough for any man.

Ford had volunteered to do what no other chief executive has done before —give formal testimony and submit to the questioning of a congressional panel.

His journey to the House judiciary subcommittee hearing room on Capitol Hill was a few minutes drive from the White House. But because it crossed the lines separating the branches of government, it was a trip which no other President has ever taken.

He said that a few days before Nixon resigned, he and former White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig had discussed a pardon as one of a number of possibilities.

But he said there had been no promises. And under questioning by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., he declared:

"I want to assure you and members of this subcommittee, members of the Congress, and the American people, that there was no deal, period. Under no circumstance."

And at another point, he declared: "I assure you that there never was at any time any agreement whatsoever concerning a pardon to Mr. Nixon if he were to resign and I were to become President."

Subcommittee Democrats generally agreed afterwards that other witnesses should be called for questioning on the circumstances of the pardon. Republicans seemed more satisfied with Ford's testimony.

But subcommittee Chairman William D. Hungate, D-Mo., said he expects to call Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski when Congress returns from its election recess next month.

Ford said he received no reports of deteriorating physical or mental health of the former President before the pardon.

At any rate, he insisted, he had not granted the pardon for Nixon's benefit, but for the country's.

Will Rogers Says

"The Senate Committee's demand for every little confidential paper exchanged between the President and that other fellow in supposed confidence, is just like a couple producing their marriage certificate in court, but are made to go back to produce all the love letters they wrote to each other during courtship.

"What does the Senate do with all the knowledge they demand from other people? They never seem to use it." June 13, 1930.

Cloudy, dry

Chilly partly cloudy weather is expected today, but there is only a slight chance of rain. Temperatures will be in the mid 40s accompanied by westerly winds 15 to 20 miles per hour. Sunny skies are forecast for Saturday with temperatures climbing to the mid 50s. Overnight lows today and Saturday will be in the low to mid 30s.

Compromise Aid Bill for Turkey Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head-to-head impasse between President Ford and Congress over cutting off U.S. military aid to Turkey was broken Thursday with approval of a new compromise reportedly acceptable to Ford.

It was passed overwhelmingly by the House and then by the Senate within hours after the House failed by only two votes to override Ford's second veto of a congressional Turkish aid cutoff.

The House approved the new compromise 101 to 33, and the Senate sent it to Ford by voice vote.

The new compromise delays cutoff of the Turkish aid until Dec. 10, providing Turkey sends no more "implements of war" to its occupations forces on Cyprus, does not enlarge those forces and continue to observe the present cease-fire. The measure Ford vetoed earlier would have cut off aid if Turkey sent any kind of equipment to the Cyprus forces.

The compromise passed the House with little debate after leaders announced it would not be vetoed by Ford.

"It is a comrpromise acceptable to the President," said Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich. "It is better than it was but worse than it should be."

House approval of the compromise was by a 191 to 33 vote.

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., a leading opponent of the Turkish aid, said Ford was consulted by telephone from a meeting of House leaders, opponents and White House aides and accepted the compromise "very, very, very, very, very reluctantly."

The compromise cutoff approved by Congress Wednesday died when the House upheld Ford's veto 161 to 83, two votes short of the two-thirds needed to override.

That measure would have cut off U.S. aid to Turkey earlier than Dec. 10 if Turkey sent any U.S. equipment to its Cyprus forces.

In his second veto message, Ford said this would pose the same dangers to the NATO alliance and Cyprus peace efforts as the immediate Turkish aid cutoff he vetoed the first time.

Congress, Ford contended, "has for the second time refused to recognize the realities of the situation."

But Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., a leading opponent of the aid, called Ford's new veto "an outright endorsement of Turkey's use of American guns and bullets to occupy another country."

More than 250,000 federal workers are caught in the impasse between Ford and Congress and many of them will get short paychecks this week and next.

Public Access Bill Vetoed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford vetoed legislation Thursday designed to strengthen public access to government documents under the Freedom of Information Act.

Ford said he felt the measure could adversely affect intelligence secrets and diplomatic relations.

In a veto message to the House of Representatives, the President said he objected to the courts being permitted to make what amoun-

Real Value of Nation's Goods Output Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The real value of the nation's total output of goods and services declined for the third straight quarter, the government said Thursday, and a new controversy appeared certain over whether there is a recession.

In spite of the new figures, administration officials insisted that President Ford is accurate in contending no recession exists. Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns has argued that the United States is in a recession.

Some economists say that two consecutive declines in the index, called the Gross National Product (GNP), mark a recession; administration economists have said this is not the only measure.

The face value of the GNP for July through September actually rose at a pace which amounted to 8.3 per cent when projected over a year, pushing GNP to $1,411.6 billion, the Commerce Department reported.

But inflation eroded those dollars at an annual rate of 11.5 per cent in the same period.

George Frick, Borough Native Dies in New York

George Lessig Frick, 86, widow of Anna Marie (Endresen) Frick, Huguenot, Staten Island, N.Y., native of Pottstown, died Thursday evening in Richmond Memorial Hospital, Staten Island, where he was a patient three days.

Born in Pottstown, he was a son of the late Charles and Rebecca Frick.

He was a structural engineer 50 years for several companies, including the Port of New York Authority.

He helped to build many of the nation's outstanding buildings, bridges, and dams, including Grand Coulee Dam, Empire State Building, and several bridges in the New York area.

After his retirement 15 years ago he worked as a free-lance structural engineering consultant.

He graduated in 1905 from Pottstown High School, in 1910 from Lehigh University, and did graduate work at the former Carnegie Technical Institute.

Because of his engineering skills he enlisted in the Army during World War I, and became a scout map-maker for the 314th Infantry Regiment of the 79th Division, Pottstown, serving in France behind enemy lines, and rising to the rank of Master Sergeant.

Before the United States entered World War II he served 17 months in the Canadian Army, and then joined the U.S. Army.

He was a charter member of the George A. Amole Post 47, American Legion.

He received many decorations including the Purple Heart, two clusters, and met his wife in Pittsburgh, where she attended him while he was recuperating.

He was an early college professional football player while attending Lehigh University, and was a member of the Frankford Yellow Jackets, the forerunner of the Philadelphia Eagles.

He was a former member of the Pottstown Odd Fellows Lodge, the Philadelphia Club, and Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Surviving are two sons, George Lessig Jr., Philadelphia; and Charles J., Staten Island; a daughter, Olga, wife of Peder Traland, Staten Island; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Interment will be in the family plot in Pottstown West End Cemetery.

Schumacher and Reber Funeral Home, 359 King St., is in charge of local arrangements.

Former Area Resident Dies

Harry B. Lynch, 81, widower of Lottie (Daniels) Lynch, Ephrata, a former area resident, died Thursday morning in Ephrata Community Hospital, Ephrata.

Born in Monacacy, he was a son of the late John and Mary (Bland) Lynch.

He resided in Birdsboro for a number of years until moving to Ephrata.

He was a machinist before retiring 15 years ago.

Surviving are a sister, Faye L., widow of Blair L. Nagle, Elkins Park, Montgomery County and three nieces.

Funeral services will be 1 p.m. Monday from Dengler Funeral Home, Main and Spruce streets, Birdsboro.

Officiating will be the Rev. Terry A. Mills, pastor of Alice Focht Memorial United Methodist Church, Birdsboro.

Interment will be in St. Michael's Cemetery, Birdsboro.

A viewing will be noon to 1 p.m. Monday at the funeral home.

Police 'Concerns' For Phoenixville

Phoenixville Borough Council will meet in special session today to discuss two issues of vital concern to the borough police force.

Applications for patrolmen and chief of police positions will be reviewed, and hiring procedures finalized in an executive session set for 7 p.m.

The meeting will be open 30 minutes later, when the council discusses what procedures will be used in handling transcripts of testimony received this week from the Pennsylvania Crime Commission.

The agenda for the special session was set at the regular meeting Wednesday by Joseph Fabian, council president.

The borough's current curfew ordinance was amended to provide fines for violators as well as adults responsible for juveniles.

Ranging from $5 for first offense to $100 on the third and subsequent offenses, the amendment was aimed at making the ordinance more effective.

A bicycle ordinance put before council three months ago was referred to the ordinance committee for further study.

A majority of councilmen felt the proposal calling for a comprehensive system of licensing and registration, was too complicated.

Fines up to $60 for bicycle riding offenders were most strongly objected to by Mayor Joseph Somber.

Hospital Patient

William Peifer, 600 Church St., Royersford, copy editor for The Mercury, was admitted to Pottstown Memorial Medical center Thursday for tests, and was listed in satisfactory condition according to a hospital spokesman.

Spring City Man Is Extradited From Tennessee

Spring City Police Chief Michael Corbett extradited a Spring City man from Greenville, Tenn. Thursday after the man jumped bail in Spring City and was arrested in Tennessee for drunken driving and possession of two concealed deadly weapons.

James L. Smith, 52, 29 N. Main St., was originally arrested by Spring City police on Aug. 25 for corruption the morals of a minor, criminal attempt and solicitation, indecent exposure and default of required appearance, according to police.

Accompanied by Det. Marvin Noznesky, Chester County detectives' office, Chief Corbett traveled to Tennessee and brought Smith to Chester County Farms Prison early Thursday, the chief said.

For centuries, Christians have been looking for the return of Christ, as prophesied in the Bible. Many have expected his arrival at a particular time and place, but have been disappointed when their hopes were not realized. Today, many believers continue to look for the return of Christ at any time. But, there are many others who have simply given up hope.

Slaughter

Pathetic.

Little calves, some newborn, some little more than a week old being shot and dumped im a large trench.

A farmer is shown standing above a calf. He presses a pistol to the animal's head, fires it, and the calf drops.

The carcass is picked up and thrown in a trench.

The point has been made, brutally made. Farmers in Wisconsin showed America it is easier for them to kill calves than to raise them.

There is something terribly sad about the slaughter. Sure, we all know that calves grow up and are slaughtered to provide meat for our tables.

But that seems more natural; the sequence of life.

To kill any young animal for the purpose of "demonstration" can't be condoned.

The world is full of starving people. Famine is killing thousands in Africa and India. Yet, in this land of plenty, calves are slaughtered!

TV films of the slaughter,— news photos of it — were enough to turn anyone's stomach.

Why was it necessary?

Are we so warped, so hard pressed that we have to resort to this?

The slaughter leads to the question: Who is getting rich on the cattle that are sold? Market prices certainly aren't cheap. Meat prices are higher than ever.

If the farmer isn't making money, then who is? The middleman?

One of the farmers who participated in the kill explained that a calf that cost $30 eight months ago now sells for $8.

He explained that the price of feeding the animal far exceeds the price he would get for it when full grown.

He said it was illogical for him to work, to spend money for feed and then to suffer a loss.

No one can argue against this.

But does this justify the slaughter? No!

Like the oil industry, the cattle industry is a puzzle to most people. Farmers should get a fair return on their investment and their work.

And, if they're not getting it, then something is drastically wrong.

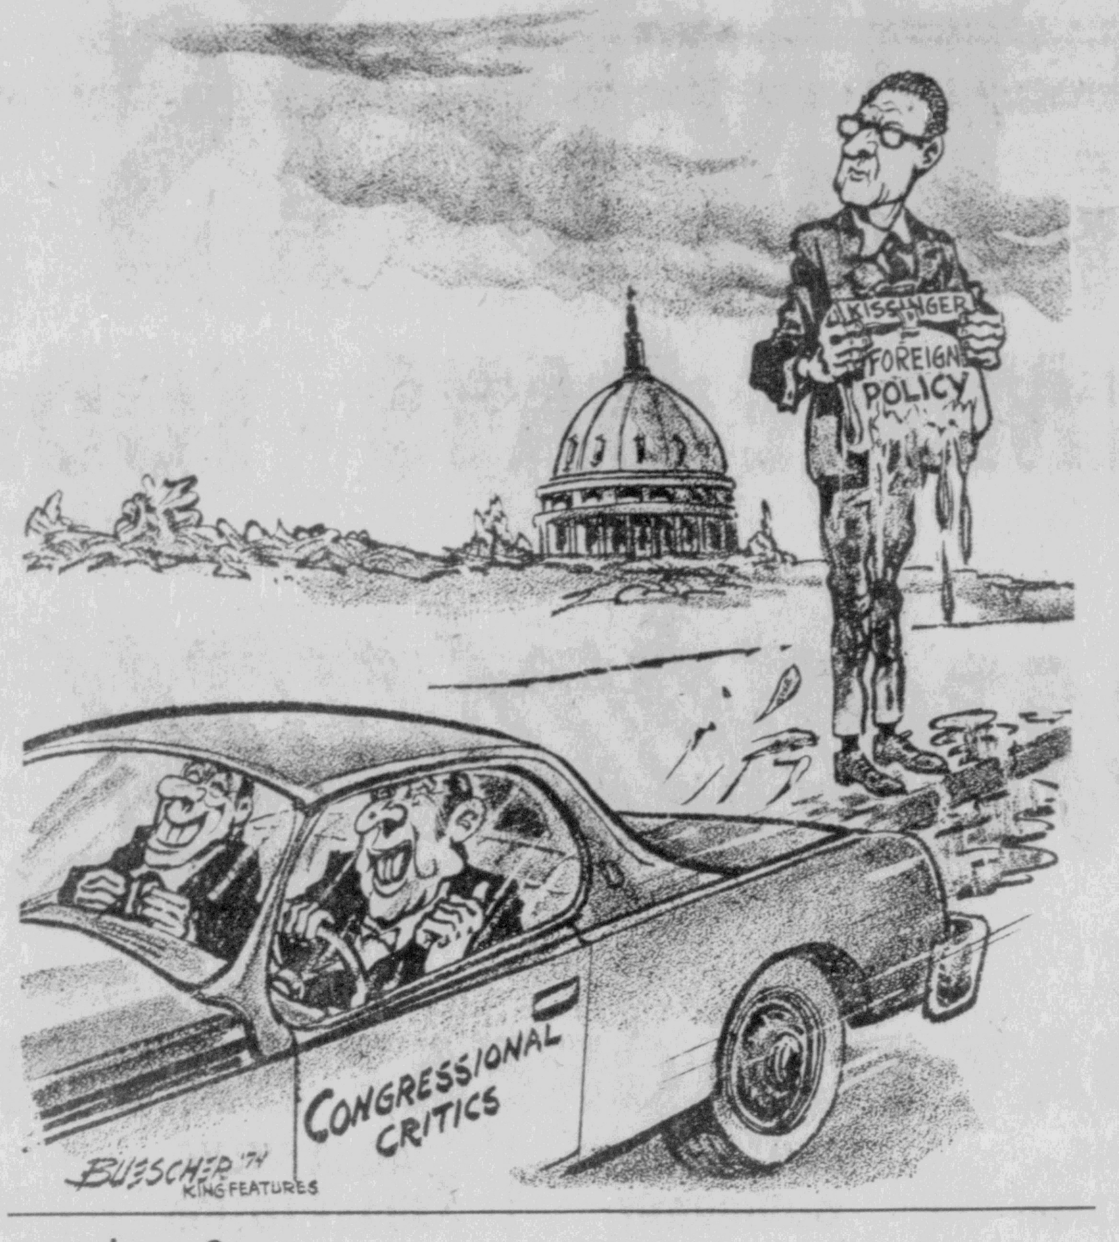
The average family today knows it is paying high prices for meat. It is assumed that the farmer is getting the profits. But, evidently this isn't the case. The farmers claim they are getting less than ever.

Now is the time for the government to step in to determine just what is going on in the cattle industry. Who is making the profits? Can't some system be worked out to insure that the farmer gets his fair share?

The cattlemen will say that their way of demonstrating was used to bring a sad situation to the public.

It is a shame that they felt it necessary to "perform" a slaughter to achieve that goal.

Something is wrong. Very wrong.



The Worry Clinic

Impotence Fear Termed Invalid

By DR. GEORGE CRANE

Father Paul, 42, does a splendid job of counseling in his large parish.

"Dr. Crane," he said during our luncheon, "I occasionally deal with couples who have been married 20 years or more.

"And the wives often tell me their marriages have become increasingly platonic because of an old notion of their husbands.

"Which is the belief that there is only a fixed amount of sexual fluids in the male.

"So when the final amount is exhausted, the men will be permanently impotent.

"Thus, those husbands excuse their lack of affection as being an attempt on their part to conserve their erotic supply.

"Is such an idea medically justified?"

PSYCHIATRISTS

In their splendid "marriage clinics" Father Paul and thousands of other talented clergymen function as unofficial psychiatrists.

Which is excellent, for Dr. Karl Menninger said that psychiatry is really a method, instead of a group of medical specialists, and thus should be available to all intelligent folks.

There would also be very little need for the psychiatrists if everybody was active in a local church.

Marriage counselors, like Father Paul, also save the taxpayers millions of dollars. How?

By reducing the legal load on our judges and courtrooms, baliffs, court stenographers and other overhead charges that raise our taxes.

Imagine, too, the emotional insecurity of the 13,000,000 kiddies who are thus half orphans.

In answer to Father Paul's query, we medics can assure you that it is fallacious to think there is only a fixed amount of erotic secretions implanted at birth.

Instead, glands actually thrive by regular use, as is likewise true of muscles.

A young cow doesn't secrete as much milk with her first calf as with the third or fourth. Why?

Because the heavy nursing by intervening calves causes the milk producing cells to increase in both number as well as size.

"Hyperplasia" is the medical term for the multiplication of milk cells, and "hypertrophy" refers to the greater size thereof that results from frequent use.

GASTRIC JUICE

Even the acid cells of the stomach thus produce more gastric juice in the glutton so the more he gorges, the larger appetite is created.

Remember, it's the diffident or finicky eater who has little appetite, for the glutton at noon is the first to sit down at a Thanksgiving banquet that same night.

A man thus does not have a fixed amount of seminal fluid, but secretes more as the need arises.

Regular marital relations also seem to insure longer sexual vigor and possibly reduce the incidence of prostate trouble.

For a sudden weaning of her baby will make a young mother's breasts enlarge painfully and "cake."

A similar condition occurs in husbands whose wives suddenly die and thus stop the male's prostatic function.

Famous Fables

By E. E. EDGAR

TREATMENT: Over the years, Joseph Conrad, who held medical practitioners in low esteem, changed doctors repeatedly. Then, late in life, he confided to a friend that he had finally settled on one physician and had been consulting him exclusively for a number of months.

"You're sure he's the right one for you?" said the friend.

"Well, I've had good luck with him," said the novelist. "He examines me and prescribes a medicine. I don't take it and I get well."

"THAT'S A NIFTY PUMPKIN YOU CARVED, MR. TREADWELL."

Readers Say:

Protect Public; Not Profits

Profits?

To The Editor: Recently in Dr. Crane's column and in a letter to "Readers Say", there were statements made about big business and the public utilities not getting the profits they feel they should get.

Why are these people so quick to yell Socialism, when government starts taking a look into profits made.

In answer to "Pro Capitalist": The public utilities should be just what they say — PUBLIC. We, the people, should have a say in rate increases. The P.U.C. is supposed to be our voice in these matters.

The utilities were set up as profit-making companies so there would be competition under a free enterprise, which is right — if there is a competitor around! Well look around, where is there another company to get your electricity from? There is none, this is why rate increases should be controlled by government.

Dr. Crane claims government is out to "Soak Big Business", well who has been soaking the middle income people for years?

Who is reaping the profits from inflation?

Who is breaking the Anti-Trust Laws?

Who has lobbyists in Washington?

Who gets large tax breaks?

Who has had the most influence in government today?

The answer is . . . big business. With our economy in trouble the first place to check is where the financial power lies, and that, Dr. Crane, is big business.

MRS. R. LYNCH

In the Dark

To the Editor: In reference to all the letters regarding the lady who locked her children in a dark closet for punishment: I can still remember crying myself to sleep in a dark closet when I was around five years old.

That was also one of the ways my mother punished me. But that was 35 years ago, when a lot of parents just really didn't know the emotional harm it could do to a child.

Maybe there are parents today who are still unaware of the potential effect it could have on children.

As a child, this type of punishment added to my fear of the dark and there are probably other effects that I was never aware of as a child. Today, I am still a little uneasy when I'm all alone in the dark.

And I definitely have a mild case of claustrophobia.

Parents, don't lock your children in dark closets: you'll do them more harm than good.

To Addict

To the Editor: The National Observer reports that children who are spanked don't grow up to be drug addicts. But—no more than three times a week—or they can become addicts.

A good story. Why not let The Mercury use it? Remember, spank—but no more than three a week.

Don't Criticize!

To the Editor: In answer to the person who wrote about Pottsgrove's and Pottstown's bands:

I'm not in the band but I'm a cheerleader for Pottstown. I don't go for the way these people are criticizing the bands and cheerleaders.

The person who wrote the letter in Tuesday's paper and signed it "Rooster" ought to watch Boyertown's band and band front. I saw them the day they played Pottsgrove. I stood and laughed.

They looked like a bunch of faires out there hopping around. They weren't marching.

Don't give us the excuse that it was raining and you didn't want to get your boots wet. Pottstown marches in the rain too, but we don't look like fools!

Pottstown doesn't scrape the bottom of the barrel for anything and I don't think Pottsgrove does either. Why don't some of you people wise up!!!

PROUD TROJAN

Hurt

To the Editor: Just to show you how the working man loses every time:

On June 19 of this year, my husband was hurt at an area industry. He was running a tow motor, and it was not equipped with overhead guards. Someone took it upon themselves to remove the one safety device that was put on for one reason to protect the operator. My husband broke his back.

Cardboard fell on him. Now we have to suffer. We get $106 a week to live on, that's all. What a price to pay when a big company is at fault!

I think they should come up with some settlement to compensate what they did to my husband.

VERY ANGRY

Good Thing

To the Editor: It is a good thing Robert Frost didn't live in Pottstown or he would still be washing dishes with The Mercury not printing poetry when there are a lot of local poets who would like to see their work published and the work of others published so we could compare them with one another as a way to learn to do better and to appreciate those that are good but no not The Mercury because someone there doesn't like poets or poems and none of us know why not.

All Around The Town

Message by Gypsy Finds Way into Print

By W. EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN
Area Historian

We recall years ago when student companions began working for the Post Office, and how they would occasionally invade the privacy of citizens and titter over messages scrawled by local people on the backs of postcards.

But speaking of invasion of rights, I doubt if we have ever before heard of publishing such a message in the newspaper, no matter how innocent. Now we are going to be equally guilty by reprinting what was made public in this manner 100 years ago.

"A number of gypsies which are now encamped at Laurel Hill Locks, visited Sheetz's Gallery on Friday, and had their photographs taken for the purpose of sending them to their friends in England. One of them had written upon his, 'This is your youngest brother John Young. If we don't meet in this world, I hope we will in the next.'"

An old gentleman from Morysville, only six miles from Pottstown, was obviously not so prone to wander about the countryside as the gypsies. In 40 years he had not visited Pottstown, but now at the age of 81 he decided to visit his nephew, James S. Gresh.

So old Nathan Gresh set out afoot. He received a lift a couple of miles from a person described as "a friendly medical gentleman"—and we should like to know which doctor. Then arriving in Pottstown in good shape he announced there was quite a change over the earlier settlement he remembered, and the place was growing "right smart."

Evidently Nathan's Morysville dialect caused the newspaper a bit of a problem, for they could not quite get the translation straight:

"Mr. Gresh is said never to have taken a ride in a railroad car, or, if he has, it was within the past year."

The old newspapers remind us in a very certain way of the names of the old familes that once made their home in this area. The following advertisement appeared in the columns of the Berks & Schuylkill Journal:

STRAY BULL

"Came to the premises of the subscriber; on or about the 15th of September last, a stray bull, dark brindle color, with a white star on the forehead—supposed to be about 2 years old. The owner is requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

"Samuel Lincoln

"Robeson

"Oct. 10, 1840."

Years pass, and then we find other names were locally connected. "A. W. Shick, merchant, has purchased of Henry Melhouse, the old Union or Buttonwood hotel property, corner of High and Washington Sts., this borough, at a price not made public. Mr. Shick intends removing his flour and feed store into the newly purchased building, after the necessary repairs are made."

The next day it was announced A. E. Yeager was stocking up his store at Kimberton with a fine line of new goods. He intended to open up shop on the approaching Saturday. And then, a lonely, traveling woman:

"Madam Miller, the Renowned fortune teller from New York who has been stopping at the Colonnade Hotel (close to depot), for several days past, did not find the people of Pottstown very anxious to have their horoscopes read, and on Wednesday she pulled up stakes and left for Philadelphia where she will have a wider field of operations for catching gudgeons."

William M. Smith, who then lived on the corner of Hanover and King streets, for some reason crawled into the attic space between his ceiling rafters and his roof, and there in the rafters discovered an old book printed in German. It had been published in 1779, and on its fly leaf was written the name of James Gilbert and the year 1794.

The Pennsylvania Story By Mason Denison

Could Legislative Function Be Left 'In Suspension?'

HARRISBURG — Is Pennsylvania's legislative function to be left "in suspension" during that interim period between Nov. 30 when legistlative terms expire and that "first Tuesday of January" (Jan. 7) when the new legislature convenes?

Not exactly, although there is a curious but, of course, remote possibility.

It is true the state constitution provides that legislative terms of service "shall begin on the first day of December next after their election" (in the present case after the upcoming Nov. 5 general election) — but on the other hand the legislature doesn't convene until that somewhat famous first Tuesday of January.

The question therefore is, what happens in the interim — should a crisis of some sort arrive?

The answer is very simple, of course. The governor, according to the constitution, has the right and privilege of calling the legislature into special session "whenever in his opinion the public interest requires."

But suppose "a" finagling governor for perhaps his own personal reasons (or gain — and some bureaucratic biggies already have been caught on this score!) refuses to call the legislature into special session to cope with the crisis; what then?

Well, the good old state constitution perhaps provides for such contingency, stating that the legislature may also be called into special session "on petition of a majority of the members elected to each House (Senate and House of Representatives)"

That should do it, in theory at least — the only trouble being that new members of the legislature elected in November aren't sworn in and don't organize until that "first Tuesday of January".

But of course, they could be sworn in early, but nowhere does it say they must — and a bloc of newly-elected brethren in cahoots with a finagling governor could simply refuse to take the oath until the January Tuesday.

An utterly absurd and preposterous situation, of course — but then again, equally absurd and preposterous is the mere thought that a President in this day and age would face possible impeachment proceedings.

But back to Pennsylvania's "December interim".

The Constitution does provide for continuity insofar as Pennsylvania's 50-member Senate in concerned.

In the first place, senators are elected to four-year terms, as opposed to the two-year terms for members of the House of Representatives — with one-half of the 50 senatorial terms falling due every two years.

Thus every two years there are 25 carry-overs, as for example this year, whose terms do not expire.

Administrative organization of the senate therefore is not a question to be considered should the legislature be called or go into session during the December interim — for the constitution provides that "the Senate shall, at the beginning and close of each regular session and at such times as may be necessary, elect one of its members President pro tempore ..."

Thus the presiding senate officer is designated by the time the session ends (assumedly one whose term is a carry-over term!).

As for the House of Represenatives though, the constitution isn't that clear. It simply says that the presiding officer — in this case the Speaker of the House — shall be elected by the members of the House, presumably on that first Tuesday of January convening. And because all 203 House terms expire every two years, there is no "December carry-over" possible, as in the case of the Senate.

Many Delights Found In Farmer's Almanac

NEW YORK — My special copy of the Farmer's Almanac, now in its 158th consecutive year, has just arrived and, if I really want to study the full-page article emblazoned with a cow, I'll know exactly "How to Make Bricks from Manure." Honest!

But I'm saving that instruction for a rainy day. As of now, let me share with you some of the other delights of the almanac of which my friend, Ray Geiger, has been editor for 41 years.

He's probed one of my favorite fields, Tombstone Humor, and come up with this epitaph:

"1838 — Grim — 1899. Beneath these stones repose the bones of Theodosius Grim. He took his beer from year to year, and then the bier took him."

That's one I hadn't heard before.

And another something I hadn't heard is a piece called "Trouble," written by Richard Cardinal Cushing. (Remember Cardinal Cushing's great poem, "I'm Fine, For The Shape That I'm In?")

Anyway, here's "Trouble:"

"I am a great believer in the idea that trouble is the best thing that ever happened to me.

"If all the troubles in the world were eliminated, and all the problems solved, we'd be more tired than work ever made us; we would be bored to death.

"The man who has a lot of troubles may not think of himself as blessed, but there is a sense in which he is.

"For my own part, I believe that God intends some of us to have a lot of troubles of our own and a gift for taking on the troubles of others.

"When God gives a man a gift like that, He always gives him the graces needed to make the gift a consolation and a source of satisfaction to himself.

"More men have been made great by crosses than by crowns; conversely, more men have been made soft, even ruined, by crowns than by crosses.

"More men have been blessed through handicap and adversity than have been perfected through health and prosperity."

Story Behind Writing Book Revealed

Writing newspaper columns and writing books are bigamous marriages. The author of good conscience gives his best to each, but his best is never good enough. He glances at what is published and moans: "Give me one more shot at that and I'll make it sing."

He doesn't get a second chance. He moves on to the next story, the next book. Nonfiction is the most difficult art form because the artist becomes the prisoner of his facts. He dares not bend truth.

A few weeks ago, my 18th book was published by William Morrow & Co. It was called "FDR's Last Year" and my only excuse for mentioning it is because I think the story behind the story may never be told.

I have been working on it since June, 1971. Assuming that all authors have a flair for a well-honed phrase, the difference between the winners and the losers is research; the digging of facts.

I dig deeply. It may be a legacy from my father's police work that I enjoy the lengthy and often repetitous interviews, the wading in dusty libraries, going to places he went and trying to see them as he saw them.

In the case of Roosevelt, the research was a race with death. There is a handful of the FDR inner circle alive and old. He died in 1945, and I had to find which ones were left and who was willing to talk.

The beautiful colleen, Grace Tully, is snowy-haired and partly blind. The intellectual wizard, Ben V. Cohen, sits alone in an apartment lined with books and silently tosses a rubber bone to a wirehaired terrier. Leo Crowley, boss of Lend-Lease, died in Madison, Wisc., as I prepared to fly to his side.

Mike Reilly, head of the White House detail of the Secret Service, didn't want to talk to me. Then he changed his mind. We had two good sessions; Secret Servicemen were as close to FDR, the crippled President, as his skin. A few months later, Mike died.

I was running, running, running. The young Navy cardiologist, Howard Bruenn, who learned that the President had irreversible heart disease, granted me three medical sessions and convinced me that FDR never asked, "How am I doin', Doc?"

Adm. Ross McIntire, who engineered the conspiracy of silence in the White House, was dead. Lucy Mercer Rutherfurd, the true love of the President for 30 years, was gone. Her daughter Barbara would not discuss the love which so many had cheapened as an "affair."

The unknown Lieut. William Rigdon, discovered by accident retired in Bethesda, was the President's "traveling secretary." I did not realize that FDR did not take the attractive young Dorothy Brady or Grace Tully with him.

Rigdon, aging, failing sight, was a perfectionist. He made shorthand notes, not only of the secret meetings and messages between Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt, but he made his own notes of everything the President said and did. He even noted fatigue, and rubdowns by Lieut. Comdr. George Fox.

Anna Roosevelt, her father's favorite, was chosen to go to Yalta over objections from Mrs. Roosevelt. His love for "Sis" was as deep and unmovable as the bottom of a glacier. It was she who explained the unplatonic relationship between her Dad and Lucy. Also why.

Thus, what was to have been my book became the sum of candid recollections by others. The race with time paid off. Professor Eric Goldman of Princeton read it and called me a "new Jim Bishop" — his error. The San Francisco Examiner wrote: "Buy it. Read it. Treasure it."

Bob Considine, who should be discounted because he is an old friend, wrote "a magnificient account of a magnificient man." Will Durant, premier historian, said: "A thorough and scholarly job." Time Magazine yanked it from the book section and gave it five columns under "History."

James A. Farley, FDR's political mentor, wrote: "Jim Bishop has revealed many things about a lonely, dying man that were new to me..."

So, you inquire, why do you boast? I do not. I am humbled by kind words because, no matter how hard the writer strives, he has no idea of what the public will approve and what people will ignore.

The hardest to please are those closest to the President. Dorothy Brady, who saw him every day, read "FDR's Last Year" and penned a note which I shall cherish:

"I've waited a long time for a person like you to write the truth about a great man. Your handling of Mrs. Rutherfurd was exquisitely delicate."

"LOTS OF PEOPLE ARE DEPRESSED THESE DAYS, MAC."

Odds & Ends

The longest recorded burial alive is one of 100 days ending on Sept. 17, 1968, in Skegness by Mrs. Emma Smith of Ravenshead, Nottinghamshire, England. The coffin was at a depth of 10 feet.

The world's largest dome is the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans. It has an outside diameter of 680 feet.

The greatest number of personal Christmas cards sent out is believed to 40,000 in 1969 by President and Mrs. Richard Nixon.

The world's greatest coffee drinkers are the people of Finland, who consume 37.3 pounds of coffee per person per year.

The oldest army in the world is the 83-strong Swiss Guard in the Vatican City, with a regular foundation dating back to Jan. 21, 1506.

Adventures of Wilbur Mills Really Very Easy to Explain

WASHINGTON — People ... Places ...

The way I understand it, Rep. Wilbur Mills just happened to drop into the Junkanoo nightclub on Connecticut Avenue to inquire the way to Vespers.

How did he fall in with all those rowdy people? Well, that's easily explained. He thought they were just some fine folks from his district in Arkansas. He's running for another term, you know, and congressmen — even the chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee — can't afford to take a chance of hurting anybody's feelings, right?

How come the 65-year-old moral force of the House of Representatives was in a big car the cops flagged down not far from old Tom Jefferson's monument, going like a bat out of heck and without lights?

Well, wise guy, it was Wilbur's car, and if a man doesn't have the right to get a little fresh air at 2 a.m., and save energy by not having the lights on, what's this country coming to?

But what about his bloody nose and those scratches on his face?

Glad you asked that, boy. Seems that one of those fine folks in the car, a Mrs. Anabell Battistella, must have drunk something at the Junkanoo that didn't agree with her. Anyway, she wanted to get out of the car while it was still speeding around the Tidal Basin.

That's when Wilbur tried to talk her out of such a crazy idea. Somehow, while he was bravely giving her the benefit of his fine wisdom, his glasses got busted and his nose started leaking. Been a lot of flu around Washington lately, you know.

Well, you know she finally got out of the car when the cops stopped it and she went over the rail and into the Tidal Basin.

Wilbur would have dived in and rescued her, but he didn't want the cop who was holding on to him to fall down.

Besides, if he had dived in to save her, it might have hurt her feelings. She knows how to take care of herself. She's a famous stripper whose stage name is Fanne Fox — the Argentine firecracker.

So where was Mrs. Mills? She would have been there, you can bet, but she has a broken foot. Besides, somebody has to watch the apartment, with all the burglaries Washington is having.

See?

Another big misinterpretation floating around Washington these days is the unfair charge that the Rockefeller boys play fast and loose with their money.

Now the professional scandalmongers you find around here are saying that Laurance Rockefeller tossed $60,000 in a scheme to discredit former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, when Goldberg was running against Nelson in the 1970 race for governor of New York.

The 60 went into the publication of a book entitled "Arthur J. Goldberg — the Old and the New."

It was a hatchet job, penned by Victor Lasky.

Well, sir, when the news broke that Laurance Rockefeller had put up all that money to smear Nelson's opponent, Nelson was the most surprised man in town.

"Had he only told me about it at the time, I would have been totally opposed to it and would have strongly advised against his participation. As it was, in all the years since, he has never even mentioned the situation to me."

Probably because it was such a piddling little sum. Can't fault old Larry for that. He'd feel pretty tight-waddish mentioning peanuts like that, in view of Nelson's giveaways.

The Super Handyman

Dear Al:

The wooden floor on any type miter box starts to get chopped up after a while when your saw blade starts to hit it after each cut. I always put in a false floor to protect the bottom. I just cut a scrap of wood to fit in the miter box. Then I apply rubber cement generously to the floor and press the scrap in place. It stays there and takes the cuts. However, when it gets all hacked up, and I want to replace it, I can pry it up, and the rubber cement lets go.

Dear Al:

Storing a canoe can be a problem. I nailed a pair of old wornout auto tires to my garage ceiling and positioned them so the canoe could be inserted upside down in the opening of each tire. The canoe is up away from ground moisture. It is also completely out of the way, and yet can be easily taken down from the rack for use. And I used tires that would otherwise end up in a junk pile.

Dear Al:

Maybe this will save other readers repair costs on rear speakers in their car if they have the same problem I had. My speakers are mounted face up under the panel behind the back seat. The sound was getting fuzzy. Before going to the shop, I got into the trunk and removed the speakers for a look. I found a number of small particles resting against the speaker cone. Apparently, these particles got on the deck, and then worked into the openings where the sound comes out and into the speakers. The vibration from the music caused them to vibrate against the speaker cone, and thus the fuzzy sound. By cleaning out the speakers, I did away with the fuzzy sound and probably saved a "repair bill."

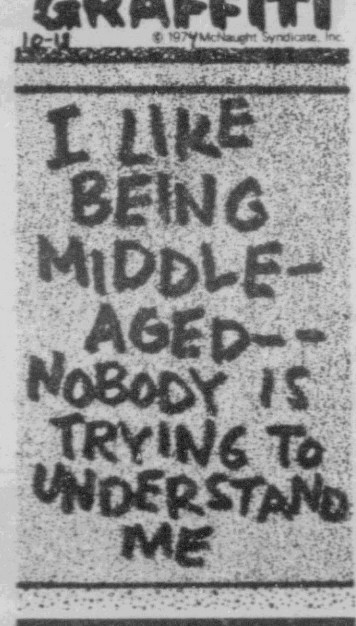
A SUPER HINT — Some holes in sheetrock walls are too big to spackle over, and thus need something to fill in. If they aren't too large, see if you can find a cork to fit. The tapered cork can be pushed into the hole and will wedge in tightly. The part that is sticking out can be shaved off. Now you can spackle over the cork to hide it, and no one will ever know what a corking easy way you did the job.

SHOP TALK — A new tool called the plier wrench has six interchangeable jaws that make it one of the most versatile hand tools I've ever seen. It has a jaw for gripping big things up to three inches, and one for gripping little things as small as wire. It also has pipe jaws and flat jaws. For many chores, the adjustable plier grip is easier to use than a fixed wrench would be.

Al Carrell welcomes all mail, especially tips from fellow handymen which he can pass on to readers as space permits. While he cannot answer all individual letters, he will try to nail down your problem in his column whenever possible.



Short Side

Skis made by Scandinavians for transportation in the California Sierras during the gold rush ranged from 10 to nearly 13 feet long, and were called "Norway skates," "snowshoes" or "long boards." A man could race downhill aboard them at 80 miles an hour.

Perkiomen Valley School District Names Business Manager

William Giambrone Jr., Royersford, was named business manager for the Perkiomen Valley School District in a meeting of the school board Wednesday.

A graduate of Temple University with a degree in business administration, Giambrone served as business manager for the Central Montgomery County Vocational-Technical School five years.

He will replace Henry L. Brooks, who served as coordinator of business affairs for the district until June, and who died suddenly in late September.

John Weaver, guidance counselor for North Montgomery County Vocational-Technical School, presented a report on the growth and future of the vo-tech school.

He pointed out to the board that in 1966 when the school opened, 75 students from Collegeville-Trappe and Schwenksville High Schools were enrolled.

In 1974 that number rose to 179, Weaver stated. The building, designed for 750 students, now holds 1,450. A feasibility study is underway in regard to possible expansion of the building, he added.

Weaver said that out of 67 Perkiomen Valley vo-tech graduates in 1974, 43 currently are working in their area of training, 10 are working in other fields and seven are continuing full time training. Only one is known to be available for employment.

On the recommendation of the business committee, the board approved transportation contracts with various individuals and bus lines, in order to transport 100 pupils to non-public schools with 10 miles of district boundaries as required by state law.

Mrs. Susan Drauschak, Pottstown RD 3, was named librarian for the Collegeville-Trappe and Skippack Elementary Schools. She holds a bachelor of science degree from Lock Haven State College.

Maternity leaves were granted to Sandra Small, high school biology teacher; Louise Shingler, teacher in Kulp Elementary School; and Susan Wiser, high school Spanish teacher.

The following co-curricular appointments were approved for the current school year: Diane Thomas to coach junior high intra-mural girls' basketball; Nancy Fortmann to supervise the junior class play; and Russell Diesinger to serve as assistant coach of the high school track team.

Eleven persons were approved for addition to the secondary teacher list for elementary schools, and six teachers were added to the secondary list.

Permission was granted to non-profit groups composed of school personnel and parents to use the all-purpose rooms in the Skippack and Kulp Elementary Schools for a Saturday morning gymnastic program.

The board noted it accepts no responsibility for the program since it is not school-sponsored.

A report on 36 children who attended the Title I summer pre-kindergarten program was discussed. Physical examinations and immunizations were arranged for all 36, and 19 children had dental checkups, fluoridation treatments and insturction in brushing their teeth through the Montgomery County Community College Dental Program.

Most of the children also received psychological examinations, and instruction in various areas to prepare them for a better adjustment in kindergarten.

David A. Cornish, chairman of the operations committee, presented bids received for cafeteria and kitchen equipment for the new Perkiomen Valley High School.

The board made the following awards: Albert H. Duffy and Co., 15 items, $7,049.26; E. A. Woodring Co., 17 items at $1,501.84; National Products Co., 61 items at $4,635.10; Mader Cash Register and Accounting Machine Co., one item at $105.23; National Cash Register Co., one item at $1,719; Roberts Meck Inc., six items at $365.04; Tri-County Business Machines and Equipment, $99.

Construction bills amounting to $419,890.05 for the new high school were approved by the board.

Clarence Huling, board president, read a policy regarding board meetings in according to the "Sunshine Law."

He said planning and work sessions of the board, held the first Tuesday of each month, will be open to the public, but only board members and persons invited by the board will actively participate in these meetings.

The regular monthly board meetings, held on the second Monday, will continue to be open to the public, with opportunity for citizens to participate before and after the scheduled committee reports.

Huling said all special meetings will be publicized at least 24 hours in advance except in an emergency involving danger to life and property.

A special meeting will be 7:30 p.m. Oct. 28 for the purpose of electing a school board member to replace Chester J. Knickerbocker, who resigned, and to conduct other necessary business.

Episcopal Bishops Uphold Principle Of Women Priests

OAXTEPEC, Mexico (AP) — American Episcopal bishops voted overwhelmingly Thursday to uphold the principle of ordaining women as priests.

But Church officials said the vote won't change the action taken by the House of Bishops in August invalidating the ordination of 11 women.

The roll call vote was 95-35 with six abstentions at the annual House of Bishops conference held in this semitropical resort 40 miles south of Mexico City.

An estimated 150 bishops are attending the meeting, but some were absent because of illness or other matters, Church off cials said.

Ramos, along with former Pennsylvania Bishop Robert Dewitt, ordained 11 women deacons as priests in Philadelphia in July, an action that was overruled by the church the following month on grounds there was no prior permission from higher authority.

Bishop Dewitt said the vote "shows a change in the House of Bishops of significance."

Ring of Truth Detected in Testimony of Chicago Alderman

Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — I don't often believe the things that aldermen say. But sometimes I detect a ring of truth.

Alderman Paul Wigoda says he didn't get a $50,000 bribe to steer through a huge zoning change that jumped some land values by millions of dollars.

I believe that Wigoda, who was convicted of failing to pay taxes on the bribe, was telling the truth. (Wigoda was one of three persons convicted in three days last week on federal charges stemming from corruption committed while associated with the regime of Mayor Richard J. Daley.)

In order to explain what I mean, I ask you to put yourself in the pointy shoes of a typical Chicago alderman.

Let us call you Ald. Grabb.

You are wandering around city hall one day, worrying about how you can increase your net worth before dinner time.

You happen to bump into your friend, Ald. Snatch, who is nervously stroking his wallet.

After clinking pinky-rings, you both disappear into a cloud of cigar smoke, place your lips near one another's ears, and discuss affairs of state:

Grabb: "Say, have you noticed that Paul Wigoda is eager to get us to rezone the old Edgewater Golf Club on the North Side?"

Snatch: "So I have noticed."

Grabb: "I wonder why?"

Snatch: "I guess it would be a good thing for our wunnerful city."

Grabb: "Yeah, and for all the wunnerful people of our wunnerful city."

Snatch: "Say, is that and in Wigoda's ward?"

Grabb: "Now that you mention it, no, it's not."

Snatch: "Hmmm. Just shows how much Wigoda cares about this wunnerful city."

Grabb: "Yeah, he wants to make it even wunnerfuller."

Snatch: "Sure, that must be it."

Grabb: "Say, what do you think might happen to the value of that land if we rezone it."

Snatch: "Oh, I suppose it might go up in value by a million."

Grabb: "Or two million."

Grabb: "Or three million."

Grabb: "Or four million."

Snatch: "Or five million."

Grabb: "Or six million."

Grabb: "My hands are sweating."

Grabb: "My wallet's sweating."

Snatch: "It would be wunnerful for the city!"

Grabb: "And for the wunnerful people!"

Snatch: "You and me are wunnerful people?"

Grabb: "You bet we are."

Snatch: "Say, do you think Paul knows it will go up in value?"

Grabb: "Paul ain't no dummy."

Snatch: "And you ain't no dummy."

Grabb: "And you ain't no dummy either."

Snatch: "To rezone, he needs your vote."

Grabb: "To rezone, he needs your vote, too."

Snatch: "A rose is a rose is a rose."

Grabb: "A vote is a vote is a vote."

With that, you, Ald. Grabb, get a gleam in your eye. And Ald. Snatch gets a gleam in both eyes. So you get a gleam in both eyes, too. Got to keep up.

You remove your cigars from your lips, hold them aloft, and shout the unofficial, but ancient, slogan of the great city of Chicago:

"Ubi . . . est . . . mea . . . "

Roughly translated it means: "Where's mine?"

Where's mine, where's mine, where's mine? Since the day the Indians were booted out, and the town started getting sliced into prime, choice and good cuts, the cry has gone out: "Where's mine?"

Since the days they went to city hall by horse and buggy, they have asked: "Where's mine." (Although, the worrying kind sometimes asked: "Is there enough for everyone?")

If there was to be progress, improvements, and a growing net worth for all, the answer had to be: "There's enough. Here's yours."

I believe that Wigoda has suffered the greatest injustice since the watermelon truck came into Slats Grobnik's neighborhood.

Slats' father sent him down the street to buy a quarter of a melon for the family.

But when Slats started back towards home, all the other kids got around him and started yelling: "Chunks, dibs, shares," and they each took a big bite.

When Slats reached the front door, there was only one mouthful left, so he took it.

Slats father came out as Slats spit out a seed. Mr. Grobnik looked at the naked rind and knocked Slats an estimated 40 feet, a new family record.

Maybe someone handed Wigoda a $50,000 watermelon. But you can bet he wasn't the only one in the gang spitting out seeds.

Higher Aluminum Prices Boost Profits of Firms

NEW YORK—Higher aluminum prices have given a major boost to profits of the nation's aluminum producers, reports from the companies showed Wednesday.

Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa), the latest to report its corporate figures, said Wednesday third quarter net profit rose to $42.4 million, an 81 per cent jump over the $23.2 million for the 1973 third quarter.

For the nine months Alcoa showed a similar percentage gain over the year earlier period—$138.2 million against 1973's $74.5 million, a gain of 80 per cent.

Earlier this week Reynolds Metals Co. and Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. reported sharply higher percentage gains for both periods. For the third quarter alone, Reynolds said profits soared 460 per cent from the year-ago period while Kaiser reported a better than 400 per cent gain.

Prices for primary aluminum during the 1973 third quarter stood at 25 cents a pound, but with increases imposed this year had risen to 38 cents a pound last month.

In a statement, Alcoa chairman John D. Harper noted that the aluminum shortage of the past year began to ease during the third quarter. He noted that customer inventories in several markets were "well-stocked" and said Alcoa has begun to replenish its own inventories to help meet customer needs.

Kaiser president Cornell C. Maier, said the easing of the supply squeeze was "a net plus for both producers and consumers," but predicted that the aluminum supply of the metal "will remain tight" for the next several years."

Pottstown High Snubs Borough's Halloween Parade

By JOSEPH DOUGHERTY
Mercury Staff Writer

Plans for the first Pottstown Halloween Parade in several years have been completed — but the Pottstown High School Band has decided to give the community a "trick" instead of a "treat" for the occasion.

Volunteer fire company officials, who have helped organize the parade for the benefit of area youngsters, say details on the parade route and registration procedures have been established.

And the only sour note so far is an announcement that the local public school marching band has "no time" to march.

While declining use of his name, the official was highly critical of what he termed "a nose thumbing of the community" by William Lamb, director of the Pottstown High School Band.

"He simply refused to have his band in the parade," said the official, "even though it was the fire department making the request.

"I can't understand that. For the past two years the band needed $250 for travel money to go to an event and each time the fire department came through with $500 — twice the amount requested.

"Now all that is forgotten. We were told the band has to be at a football game in the afternoon. So what? This parade will be over by 10 a.m., and that's more than enough time."

The official was asked why he didn't go over the head of the band director, and appeal either to the superintendent of schools or the school board.

"We tried that in the past," he replied, "and it never worked."

Another volunteer fire official announced parade details:

Donald Yerger, vice president of Good Will Fire Co., parade chairman, said there will be a 45-minute registration on the day of the parade, Oct. 26.

The event begins at 9 a.m. from High and Adams streets and moves westward along High Street to the disbanding point in front of the Elks Home, 61 High St.

At that point refreshments, donated by the Elks Club, will be served all parade participants.

Formation will take place on Queen Street between Adams and Madison, and Yerger stressed all participants must have a number to be eligible for a prize.

The numbers will be distributed behind Good Will Fire Co. from 8 to 8:45 a.m. immediately prior to the parade.

Yerger said no names will be taken. "We will have the number cards marked in such a way we will be able to determine if they are official," he said.

"Then, after the parade, the winning numbers will be announced and the number must be handed in to receive the prize."

The Pottstown Recreation Department normally conducts Halloween parades, but it hadn't staged any for a number of years.

This year, Mayor Edward W. Jameson pledged there would be one, even if he had to coordinate it himself.

That's what happened, and Jameson enlisted the aid of the four Pottstown fire companies.

Also helping will be the Pottstown Jaycees and the Pottstown High School Key Club.

Members of the Jaycees will serve as judges, stationed at points along the line of march.

Numbers of winners will be announced in the Monday, Oct. 28 issue of The Mercury.

Yerger said groups of six or more planning to participate, and those planning to enter floats or vehicles must go through a special registration.

That can be accomplished by calling any of the Pottstown fire companies no later than Wednesday, Oct. 23.

While apparatus from all four fire companies will be included in the line of march, the names of the bands participating were not disclosed.

Cloudy Skies Will Return

Bright sunshine Thursday brought an end to a short period of heavy rainfall, and residents enjoyed pleasant fall weather.

Umbrellas and raingear needed to combat Wednesday's storm which brought more than two inches of rain, were put away Thursday as blue skies prevailed throughout the afternoon.

Partly cloudy skies are anticipated today, but there is only a 20 per cent chance of rain.

105 Candles on Her Birthday Cake Today

Mrs. Mary Cain, Phoenixville Manor, is celebrating a birthday today — her 105th. Residents of the manor will join Mrs. Cain and her son, John, Spring Valley Road, Malvern, for a party in her honor this afternoon at the manor. Born Oct. 20, 1869, she operated a truck farm selling produce to West Chester Markets until her 95th year. She then helped in the writing of a history of East Whiteland Township. Truly a liberated female, Mrs. Cain believed a woman "should work and not be a burden." Since women gained the vote, she has missed only three elections and they were primaries. Mrs. Cain is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Glenlock, and an honorary member of the Chester Valley Grange.

Set Your Sights On Safe Hunting

Area hunters can look forward to good fall and winter seasons, according to a state game warden, . . . but only if each person observes certain safety precautions and maintains the proper "spirit of the sport."

Joseph A. Leiendecker, a state warden whose territory includes Colebrookdale, Douglass and Earl Townships as well as southern Berks County, said most big game animals and many smaller species are plentiful.

But the danger of careless hunting may be greater than in most past seasons.

Leindecker cited a large increase in the number of hunters over the past three years and a corresponding rise in hunting violations.

"We've been having trouble in several areas," he said. "There is a law stating you can't shoot if you're within 150 yards of a building or occupied structure. Some people choose to ignore this, if they spot an animal near a building. Others just don't realize how close to a building they are. Regardless of the circumstances, they should play it as safely and cautiously as possible.

"We also find some people hunting in unharvested corn or grain fields," he continued. "They have no business being there unless they have been given permission by the landowner."

Another problem, is that some people disregard the time restrictions placed on the hunting of each type of game.

Some of these problems, he said, stem from the attitude people take toward hunting. Leiendecker said a certain "spirit" should be developed toward the sport.

"Hunting is a form of recreation, a chance to be outdoors. Some people seem to feel the whole idea is to get out and make as many kills as possible. "If this is your attitude, we'd rather not have you in the woods.

"Hunting is a chance to relax and enjoy the surroundings," he continued. "Even if no kill is made, you should still be able to have a good time."

Sunrise Saturday will makr the opening of squirrel and grouse season, which continues through Nov. 30. These animals may be hunted one half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Racoon season begins Saturday and e ds Feb. 28. Racoons may be hunted 24 hours a day, but not on Sundays. Geese hunting which began last Saturday will continue through Dec. 20 with hunting hours a half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Duck season ends Saturday at sunset, and reopens Nov. 8, to Dec. 14. Dove season, which opened Sept. 2, ends Nov. 9, noon to sunset. Duck hunting is open from a half hour before sunrise to sunset.

October 26-Nov. 30 is the season for hunting rabbits, ring neck pheasants, bobwhite quails and wild turkeys.

Bear hunting will only be allowed one day, Nov. 25.

Archer's deer season, which began Sept. 28, continues until Oct. 25, and buck season will be Dec. 2 — 14. Daily hunting hours for all of these animals are one half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Antlerless deer season will be Dec. 16-21 in Chester, Delaware, and Montgomery counties and Berks County south of Route 22. For most other parts of the state these animals may only be hunted Dec. 16-17. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The dates for turkey season differ in different parts of the state. Leiendecker advised hunters to check the phamplet which comes with the hunter's license.

1st Lady's Surgery Does It:

Breast Cancer Taboos Gone

By JOHN THIESSEN
Mercury Staff Writer

Betty Ford, wife of the President, has done more in one week than Playboy's Hugh Hefner in 20 years, to uncover women's breasts as an important topic of conversation.

This is all the more interesting because her concern with breasts was caused by suspected illness and pain, rather than an object of sex and pleasure, as in the Playboy philosophy.

And today, the subject of breast cancer came back strongly into the national news again — with the announcement that Happy Rockefeller has just completed radical surgery for the disease. She is the wife of vice presidential designate Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Because of the seriousness and wide-spread prevalence of breast cancer, officials say the subject still hasn't been discussed nearly enough.

As an indication that the subject of cancer needs to be pulled out of the closet is the fact that one out of 15 American women develop breast cancer at some time, according to figures released by Rita Wolf, director of public relations for the American Cancer Society, Philadelphia.

Furthermore, it is the leading cause of death among women in their early 40s.

What this means on the national scale is that this year 89,000 new cases of breast cancer will be discovered, including 6,300 in Pennsylvania.

There will be 32,500 deaths this year, and 2,300 in this state, all because of this killer disease.

However, the picture is not all gloomy, Mrs. Wolf said.

In fact, the brightest ray of hope comes from a public awareness that when there is early detection of a tumor, chances are excellent that it can be cured, or at least controlled.

The survival rate, when there's early detection, is 85 per cent.

Practically all cases of female breast cancer, 95 per cent, are discovered by the person herself, proving that a monthly self-examination and regular medical checkup are the best defense.

While breast cancer is a most dangerous form of the disease for women it is not restricted to that sex. Neither is it the only form of that disease to cause concern.

Out of 360 cases of fatal breast cancer in Philadelphia last year, three of those were men, Mrs. Wolf added.

Also, cancer is not restricted to the breast, but can occur in nearly any organ of the body.

Other forms that are fairly well-known include cancer of the colon and rectum, lung, prostate, mouth, skin; leukemia (disease of the blood stream), and Hodgkins disease (disease of the lymphatic system).

But any other part of the body can develop a malignant tumor, in addition to the eruption of an even greater number of benign, or non-malignant tumors.

In fact, cancer is not confined to humans, but animals are highly susceptible to the disease, making them valuable in research.

Even plants can contract the disease.

The word cancer refers to not only one kind of tumor, but to a whole family of diseases, which number more than 100.

Women seem to have a higher incidence of cancer than men, and it appears that while the disease is not contagious there is a "familial tendency," towards a susceptibility to the condition.

Instead of such information causing panic, Mrs. Wolf suggested that public awareness and action can only be helpful.

A great deal of cancer research is going on, including some $2 million worth annually in the Philadelphia-Camden area, making it one of the nation's leading centers in the battle against the dread disease. Another important center is in Hershey, Pa.

Research is bearing results. Some 10 types of cancer already are being controlled, especially the corea-carcinoma, which affects pregnant women.

Medical diagnosis is constantly improving, so that detection is possible earlier and earlier, including even the condition that can only be called "pre-cancerous."

"By a combination of early detection and advances in treatment," Mrs. Wolf said, "our efforts are directed at both curing cancer and preventing it.

"We are firmly convinced that when people are aware of the danger signals and act immediately, they need not be frightened.

"If they suspect a tumor, they should seek medical help and diagnosis immediately, and in most cases the tumor is benign.

"If it isn't medical attention should be given promptly.

"In cases of breast cancer, we believe a mastectomy, or surgical removal of the breast is the most effective treatment. But there also are other techniques of controlling the disease," Mrs. Wolf said.

Inflation Wipes Out the Big-Time Tippers

As inflation pushes the price of restaurant bills higher, it may be making the "big tipper" an endangered species in Pottstown.

Not that there ever was an over abundance, but it seems that the extra coins going into the price of a meal are coming out of the generosity of a tip.

In many cases, gratuities do not keep pace with the suggested 15 per cent of the total bill, according to several waitresses who work in downtown Pottstown.

"We find that some customers became accustomed to leaving a certain amount of money for a certain kind of meal," said one young woman, who preferred to remain anonymous.

"But as prices of the meal go up, they fail to adjust their tips, as if they were stuck in a rut."

One patron, who left a quarter as a matter of routine for a meal under $2, now pays $3 for the meal and the quarter no longer constitutes even 10 per cent of the bill.

A waitress at another eating establishment was less critical and more philosophical.

"Tips always were a reward for satisfactory service, and always will be," she said.

"So it's my job to be friendly, treating each customer as a special person, tending carefully to their wishes. If I do my job well, so the customer is happy, he or she will almost always leave me a tip as suggested."

Perhaps the secret of lower tips is to work faster — and earn more.

A waitress in a fast-food diner said the secret of making money, either in tips or in the total operation, is rapid turnover.

"When the manager keeps after the kitchen personnel to produce a good meal fast . . . and the serving is prompt . . . the customer will not only be happy but also a given table will serve two settings instead of one.

As a result, she indicated, she would collect two tips instead of one.

Captain Noah, 40 Floats, 10 Bands Will Appear in Halloween Parade

NEWS FROM THE Boyertown Area

Television's Captain Noah, more than 40 floats, 10 marching bands and seven twirling units, plus hundreds of costumed marchers will combine 7:30 p.m. Saturday to make the 22nd annual Boyertown Halloween parade the biggest ever.

According to Scott Hartman, chairman, a record number of spectators should view the spectacle, because the parade route will be longer in previous years.

"All that we need is fair weather," he said, "and have to postpone the parade until the rain date, Oct. 28, we could have problems."

The latest weather forecast indicates that Saturday evening should be pleasant.

Floats and large marching units will form 6 p.m. on the grounds of Boyertown Elementary and Junior High West, and costumed children on the parking lot of Tung-Sol Co., West Second street.

A color guard of the Pennsylvania National Guard, Pottstown armory, will lead off at 7:30, its first appearance, and will be followed by the marching band of the Junior High West Center.

Other bands in the first division of the parade are the Hazleton Highlanders drum and bugle corps and the Spring-Ford Junior High School.

Boyertown's Junior high East Center and Boyertown's Senior High marching units will lead off the second and third divisions of the parade.

Captain Noah will be on the Tung-Sol parking lot before the parade begins, handing out 1,000 autographed pictures, after which he will ride in an open convertible close to the middle of the parade.

The parade route forms a huge rectangle, going west on Second street, north on Warwick and Reading avenues, east on Philadelphia avenue, and south on Madison street, back to the starting points.

The route was changed from the previous route because of construction on Third street and Washington street, at the site of the new borough hall.

Hartman requested residents of Second street to turn on their porch lights to provide additional illumination along that road, which is mormally quite dark.

The Boyertown Jaycees, sponsors of the parade, will provide treat bags for each marcher, including candy, a drink ticket donated by Talarico's sandwich shop, and a movie ticket for special 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday matinees at the State Theater.

Other bands scheduled to appear are from Owen J. Roberts Middle School, Pottstown Junior High, Keystone Regiment drum and bugle corps, Reading; Heidelberg Philharmonic comic unit and Kutztown State College.

Twirling units participating are Boyertown Legionettes, Norco Villagers, the Sparkies and Suzie-Ques from Reading, the Limerick Shamrocks, the Hatfield Rebellettes, and the Exton Twirlers.

Forty floats by Scout troops and Cub packs were registered by last weekend.

Burt Brenner Installed As Optimist President

Burt Brenner was installed as president of the Optimist Club of Boyertown at the annual installation-recognition dinner-dance at Sunnybrook Ballroom, with 51 members and their wives attending.

Tony Santesanio, immediate past governor of the Delaware-Eastern Pennsylvania district of Optimists International, conducted the installation.

Other officers who will lead the club in its 21st year of service to area youth are Ken Snyder, first vice-president; Michael Donahue, second vice-president; John Breidenbach, treasurer, Walter Smithson, secretary; Wilbur Cooper, Peter Kock, Carl Yescavage and William Spade, new board members, and Earl Davidheiser and Phil McKenna, sergeant-at-arms.

Brenner received the Optimist of the Year award for outstanding service during the past 12 months, with Roy Geiger making the presentation.

Larry Rush, outgoing president, received a past president's plaque from William Vendetti, master of ceremonies.

Arlen Schaeffer was inducted as a new member.

Ken Snyder, outgoing secretary, gave perfect attendance awards to John Breidenbach, 14 years; Lee Moyer, 11; Bruce Landis, nine; Richard Frey, six; Larry Rush and William Vendetti, five; Walter Smithson and Peter Mercer, four; William Space and Burt Brenner, three, and Ken Snyder, two.

3 Join Auxiliary

Three new members were accepted at a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Liberty Fire Co. of New Berlinville at the firehall. There were Mrs. Varnall F. Frack, Sarah Wagner and Joanne H. Samsel.

Prizes were won by Virginia Snyder, Martha Hoffman, Mary T. Moyer, Alma Gross and Hilda Frain.

Birthday greetings were extended to Hilda Frain, Thelma Sands, LaRue Stauffer and Hilda Blessinger.

A Halloween party is planned.

Read Honored At Conference

Rowland A. Read, borough manager of Boyertown, was among 217 management professionals honored Wednesday in Dallas, Tex., at the 60th annual conference of the International City Management Association.

He was among 12 to be awarded the ICMA's 25-year service plaque, and was among only three who served the same community 24 or more years. He will note his 25th anniversary March 3, 1975.

Read, who lives at 36 Orchard Lane, Boyertown, did not attend the convention.

Good Shepherd Church to Observe Laity Sunday

Laity Sunday will be observed at the 7:45 and 10:20 a.m. Sunday services of Good Shepherd United Church of Christ, 35 W. Philadelphia Ave., Boyertown.

Patricia Landis, member, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Landis, will be speaker. She is a speech and hearing consultant for the Maryland State Department of Health, Baltimore.

In March, 1973, she set up a speech pathology program in Saigon's Center for Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery in South Vietnam, which was the first pathology program in that country. She also travelled to Sweden, Japan, and Alaska.

Others taking part in the early service, will be Jean and Charles Houck, and in the 10:20 service, Harper Diener and James Shaw.

The youth fellowship will hold a Halloween party 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday at the church.

A fireside chat will be 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Werstler, Boyertown RD 3.

Moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave
There sleeps my dear wife & mother
We tried so hard to save
We often sit and think of her
And speak of how she died
To think she didn't say goodbye
Before she closed her eyes.
For all of us she did her best
May God grant her eternal rest.

Women Guerrillas in Belfast Become Increasingly Active

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — They surface mainly at funerals, marching alongside the hearse in black berets, dark glasses, green-belted coats, black shoes and stockings.

On less public occasions, they leave the uniforms at home and become skilled gunwomen, bomb-throwers and undercover agents.

Some 100 prisoners in the women's wing of Armagh jail took the warden and three guards hostage this week to support rioting men inmates at another prison, but later released them unharmed.

Exact figures are not known, but probably 80 per cent or more of the women in Armagh jail support the Provisional wing of Irish Republican Army. Others support extremist Protestant groups.

Once the women's role in the guerrilla movement was mainly auxiliary — nursing, spying out targets and ferrying messages and arms.

But security men say the women became increasingly active as their men were seized by the hundreds and interned in the Maze and Magilligan prison camps, devastated in this week's riots.

A 14-year-old girl was once picked up because soldiere noticed she was walking awkwardly. She had a sniper's rifle hidden down the leg of her trousers.

Rita O'Hare, wife of a top Provisional, was picked up badly wounded two years ago after a shootout with British soldiers in Belfast. She jumped bail on a charge of attempted murder and now lives with her children in a Dublin suburb.

Rose Curry, 19, was the first of five known casualties of the Belfast IRA women's auxiliary. She was blown up with her boyfriend while building a bomb in a house.

The most devastating of the 27 bombs to hit Belfast's Europa Hotel was planned by women who walked into the bar with gelignite hidden under their clothes.

One by one they went to the powder room, assembled the bomb, took a farewell drink and went home. The bomb blew out the side of the building and wrecked two of its 12 floors.

Women's involvement in the guerrilla struggle is a tradition which goes back to Dublin's 1916 uprising against British rule when "The Red Countess," Constance Markiewicz, an Anglo-Irish aristocrat married to a Polish nobleman, headed an insurrectionary unit.

Today the involvement is much greater and much closer to the grassroots. Nearly always it can be traced to family connections with IRA campaigns of 1938-1940 and 1956-62.

Marian and Dolours Price, the Belfast sisters jailed in Britain as masterminds of the squad which last year bombed London's Old Bailey criminal court, are the daughters of Albert Price, a veteran of the two previous campaigns.

From the time they were sentenced last year the girls went on a hunger strike, demanding a transfer to a Northern ireland jail. They called off the strike when the British let it be known they could expect to be in Armagh by Christmas.

The figurehead of the women's guerrilla movement is Maire Drumm, a Belfast grandmother who has served jail terms on both sides of the Irish border.

Mrs. Drumm is vice president of the Provisional Sinn Fein, the IRA's political front. She took over as acting president when Rory O'Brady was temporarily interned last year.

Some big names not directly connected with the Provisionals have appeared at Sinn Fein meetings, among them novelist Edna O'Brien and actress Siobhan McKenna.

Bernadette Devlin Macaliskey, once the youngest member of the British Parliament, occasionally appears with both the Provisionals and the Sinn Fein. Miss Devlin is a former Armagh inmate.

Among the leftist women, the most prominent is Mairin de Bourca, a Dublin writer and political activist whose last jail appearance was for throwing an egg at former President Richard M. Nixon's motorcade in Dublin in 1970. Nixon was not hit.

Two German models were among the latest to figure on the Provisional side. They were picked up at London airport ferrying money from Dublin to Germany, apparently a payoff for an arms deal.

They claimed in court they were innocent dupes of the IRA, but were fined $12,000 apiece.

Other spectacular performers in the Provisional arena were Maria McGuire and Rose Dugdale, two exceptions to the rule that most IRA women have an IRA background.

Miss McGuire, a good-looking Dubliner with a talent for languages, helped organize an abortive gun-running mission from Eastern Europe with David O'Connell, reputedly the IRA's current chief of staff.

Then she defected and produced a racy volume of bedroom reminiscences before vanishing to escape an IRA death sentence. She had, in the words of an IRA man, "written her memoirs before she was even dead."

Study Says U.S. Could Achieve Zero Energy Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4 million Ford Foundation study said Thursday the nation should cut the growth of energy demand in half and could, if necessary, achieve zero energy growth after 1985.

Such cuts can be made through improved efficiency without sacrificing economic growth, said the final report of the foundation's Energy Policy Project.

Short-range issues such as President Ford's policy to reduce oil consumption one million barrels a day by voluntary conservation were not considered in this study.

But project director S. David Freeman told reporters he considered the present administration policy "grossly inadequate".

"I have very little confidence this will produce much in the way of results," he said. "We ought to try to cut one million barrels per day forthwith . . . we ought to be building up stockpiles."

If the nation is serious about saving fuel immediately, Freeman said, it will have to adopt some kind of fuel rationing. He favored coupon rationing, saying that energy taxes or price hikes are unfair, hurting the poor more than the rich.

Sharply questioning many present or contemplated government policies, the project's final report urged a large shift in emphasis and funding from programs to develop huge new energy sources toward programs to cut energy growth.

Halloween Parade to Include Variety of Categories

A variety of categories ranging from monsters and witches to Pilgrims and Santa Claus will be included in Royersford's annual Halloween parade 7 p.m. Monday on Main Street.

James McKissic, Wilson Christman and Allen Giaqinto are in charge of arrangements for Royersford Businessmen's Association, sponsor. Borough Council will provide $200 of the $300 offered in silver dollars as prizes. The judges' stand will be located at Bill Guffey's Service Station, Third Avenue and Main Street, where winners may claim their prizes after the parade.

The parade will begin at Fifth Avenue and Main Street with Dr. George Everett Rimby mayor, as marshal in the police car driven by Chief Harry VanHorn. Also in the line of march will be Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6341, Royersford, color guard; Spring-Ford Junior High School Band, the seventh grade band and the Spring-Ford Golden Rams Senior High Band.

The parade will proceed down Main Street to Third Avenue, turn left on Third Avenue to Walnut Street and end at Fourth Avenue. McKissic asked residents of Walnut Street to turn on their front lights along the parade's route.

Parade captains will be Roy Peoples, Howard Goodrich, Giaquinto, and Russell Reitnour with guides Charles Lebow, Harold Savage, Charles Shupe and Robert Oehlert.

Judges will include Mrs. Charles Bowers, Mrs. Lewis Calcinore, Mrs. Wilson Christman, Mrs. James Cunningham, Sherry DeWees, Mrs. Karl Gaver, Mrs. Lester Horning, Mrs. McKissic, Mrs. Peoples, Mrs. Charles Shappell, Mrs. Shupe Mrs. LeRoy Strock and Mrs. Jeanne Yerk.

Candy distribution to participants will be handled by Christman and L. Strock. Identification numbers may be obtained in advance at Allen's Candy and Variety Store, Horning Chevrolet or Royersford Hardware.

Assisting will be Humane and Friendship Fire Companies, Royersford, and Spring-Ford Rescue Squad, Spring City.

Categories are as follows: rocket men, space themes, astronauts, Indians, Western theme and cowboys, first category, patriotic characters, president, Uncle Sam, servicemen, second, animals, third.

Also, Halloween theme, pumpkins, witches, ghosts, skeletons, cornstalks and goblins, fourth, television characters human not animal; fifth, circus theme, clowns, fat persons, hobos and strong men, sixth, occupations, doctors, nurses, policemen, seventh; holiday themes except Halloween, Pilgrims, Santa Claus, elves, international characters, eighth.

Also, monsters and athletes, ninth; beatniks not including hobos, tenth; floats, non-motorized, wagons, carts, hand-pulled vehicles, bicycles and best costumed group of 10 or more persons, eleventh.

There will be a judge for each category and three special judges to select winners of 20 special awards.

Prizes not claimed the night of the parade may be picked up the following day at Christman's Jewelry Store, Main Street, Royersford.

Manor Club Schedules Bus Trip

Murl Tiffany, past president, greeted 66 members of the Golden Manor Club, Royersford, at this week's meeting in the Community Room, Golden Age Manor, Fourth Avenue and Walnut Street.

Etta Brower, chaplain, offered a prayer. Sara Wiand was song leader.

Final plans were made for the club's bus trip Monday to Willow Valley Motel, Lancaster County, for a luncheon. The bus will leave the Manor at 9:45 a.m.

October birthdays will be celebrated at the Oct. 28 meeting in the Community Room.

Mrs. Ruth Ackerman was named to handle table decorations and the birthday cake.

Mrs. Ackerman had charge of an informal musical program opened by explaining the background of old songs. A quartet comprised of Mrs. Wiand, Mrs. Helen Burgoyne, Mrs. Evelyn Benfield and Tiffany, sang several selections.

A reading was given by Mrs. Ackerman. She also played piano solos. The program concluded with group singing led by Mrs. Waind.

The club kitchen band, "Guys and Gals of the Skillet," will entertain at the Oct. 28 meeting.

Members To Attend BPW Tea

Chesmont Business and Professional Woman's Club will host a tea for prospective members and guests 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Fifth Avenue and Main Street, Royersford. The affair marks the start of National Business Women's Week.

The public relations committee planning the tea consists of Mrs. Mary Lou Friedhofer, Mrs. Ruth H. McNelly and Mrs. Ethel Brignola. The projects committee, headed by Mary Alice Smith will assist.

Prospective members may contact Lurene Warren, psychologist, at Pennhurst State School and Hospital, membership chairman.

A dinner meeting will be 6:30 p.m. Thursday in Spring-Ford Country Club, Royersford. Speaker will be Rita E. Prescott of the Pennsylvania Federation of BPW Clubs.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Don't overspend in an effort to impress others. In fact, wading out of your depth financially in any way would be extremely foolish now.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Your Venus highly auspicious. Both artistry and imagination stimulated. Use both well and results will please.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — A good day for attaining one of your cherished goals. Someone behind the scenes is working in your interest.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — An excellent period for teamwork. Many useful ideas will result from an exchange of views with associates. Some good news indicated in the p.m.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) — A day calling for careful discrimination. Don't waste time on nonessentials while you neglect more vital matters. As with Cancer, you may get some good ideas from others.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Weigh fitness and the validity of proposed action carefully. Keep eyes on the farthest horizon possible as you steer your course.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Despite a few obstacles, many benefits and new means of attainment are indicated. Especially favored: romance, travel, family interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — A new surge of energy should carry you far along the road to success and recognition. But be sure of your goals. Don't go off on tangents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — If you aim straight and do not permit emotions or a biased viewpoint to throw you off course, you will know how to cope with ALL, not some situations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Do not let a personal disappointment mar your overall perspective. Continue to aim for high goals. Your adeptness, know-how and intuition should be potent now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Just the right day to bring off something new in your occupational area. Move fast! Evening hours favor romance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Look for some unusually pleasant communications from those at a distance; also new contacts which could prove invaluable in a business way.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by the Sign of Libra, a symbol of justice, friendship and humanitarianism. You can accomplish a great deal in a lifetime, but must learn to curb your emotions and a tendency toward excessive pride. You have a lively imagination and a great love of beauty, but may express both in intellectual forms rather than in artistic ventures. You have a talent for writing which, coupled with a strong discriminatory sense, would make you an outstanding literary or dramatic critic. In fact, the theater in general is an excellent medium for your talents. Other fields in which you could excel: the law, statesmanship, diplomacy and business counseling. Birthdate of Thomas Love Peacock, novelist, poet; Inger Stevens and Melina Mercouri, actresses.

Tax Collector Records Blamed

Spring-Ford Audit Reveals Problems - Again

Former Limerick Tax Collector Richard Wells, who a year ago was in trouble with the Spring-Ford School directors for alleged shoddy bookkeeping in connection with school district accounts, Wednesday night was in the same predicament.

The new tax collector is William Miller, but the board's auditor, Dreslin and Co., found fault with practices occurring before June 30 when Wells' term expired.

The auditing firm said the errors were similar to those of the previous year with a difference of $2,715.49 between the balance shown by the tax collector and that arrived at in the audit.

The report commented that data pertaining to public utilities including tax liens on them were eliminated in arriving at the unreconciled balance.

It said by recording additional tax liens in the amount of $1,578.24, the unreconciled difference could be reduced to $1,137.24.

"Of the $1,137.24, the only suggestion we can offer is the tracing of payments against the duplicates and change orders for the period in question. We also recognize that the cost of such time would far exceed the $1,137.24 involved," the report said.

It further said in reconciling the per capita and personal tax duplicate for the year under the review, the difference due the school district was brought to Wells' attention.

The board Wednesday night directed the solicitor notify the tax collector's surety of the unsettled situation revealed by the audit.

The board also named Mrs. Dawn E. Middleton, 854 Hale St., as an elementary teacher in the third grade of Mont Clare School.

Barry Shafer was named safety patrol sponsor in the Consolidated School and Randy Koon was appointed percussion instructor for the senior high school band.

The superintendent was authorized to select an arbitrator and incur all expenses related to arbitration under provisions of the Public Employe Relation Act to settle an employe grievance.

The board approved use of the senior high school stadium for the Cavalcade of Bands Association to conduct American and Independence Conference Championships Nov. 2. The high school band will participate.

Action by the superintendent of schools and the solicitor in determining assessments on B.F. Goodrich Co. property was ratified by the board. School officials reached a compromise with the company.

Auxiliary Hosts Annual Banquet

Elsie Saylor, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, Friendship Fire Co., Royersford, presented a donation to the company at an annual banquet in the firehall, Third Avenue and Green Street, Royersford.

Accepting the contribution toward new radios for firefighting equipment was Carl Clemens, president. The affair noted the 76th anniversary of the volunteer organization.

Mrs. Anna Marie Davis was honored for 25 years' service with the auxiliary. She received a gold pin and life membership.

Auxiliary officers attending as guests in addition to Mrs. Saylor were Janet Long, Dolly Yeager, Anna Belle Hunter and Dorothy Gross.

Also among guests were Donald Long, chief of Humane Fire Co., Royersford, and Ernest Shaner, assistant chief, Liberty Fire Co., Spring City.

Fire Company officials honored were Clemens, president; Robert Umstead, vice president; Michael Gennaria, recording secretary; Donald Brobst, financial secretary; John Hedrick, treasurer; Richard Saylor, assistant chief; Harry Umstead, captain; Kenneth Wadsworth, first lieutenant; Robert Ziegler, chief engineer; Gary Overdorf, chemical engineer.

And, William T. Orner, Donald Judy, Irvin Clemens Jr., Charles Miller and Frank Miller Jr., trustees.

Youth Charged

A 20-year old Pottstown man was issued a non-traffic citation for underage drinking at the corner of High and Warren streets 2:04 a.m. Thursday, according to police.

The juvenile was discovered after he allegedly yelled abusive names to patrolmen driving by, police said.

Patrolman Richard N. Deets investigated.

WHO SHOULD BE RUNNING OUR HOSPITALS?

A private insurance company—Blue Cross—apparently thinks it knows more about hospital cost-control than the people who actually operate the hospitals. To end the current contract dispute, Blue Cross insists that it set its own payment schedule for specific medical services.

Under Blue Cross's proposal, hospitals would be paid what Blue Cross wants to pay—not the actual costs. But, the Blue Cross proposal does not cover today's cost of hospital care. What's worse, Blue Cross would dictate the future rates for these services!

What are non-profit hospitals?

Just that. We exist to provide the finest possible health care for every patient—not to profit from your illness. The best care demands research and up-to-date facilities and equipment, not merely holding on as best we can. But simply "holding on" is what Blue Cross would have us do. "Holding on" has to mean second-rate health services.

Inflation doesn't stop at our doors.

We are doing everything possible to improve medical care while fighting galloping inflation. We have less than total control over wages, professional charges, laboratory costs, medical supplies, food service, utilities, fuel and outside costs. On the other hand, non-profit hospitals in this area are subject to numerous governmental, professional and financial regulations and controls.

What's more, non-profit hospitals are pledged to provide medical services to everybody regardless of ability to pay. Government subsidies fail to cover these costs. Did you know that area hospitals lost more than $18,000,000 last year on emergency-room and outpatient services alone?

Are the Blue Cross demands unusual?

Yes. Virtually unprecedented, in fact. The overwhelming majority of the 74 Blue Cross plans across the country—including some in other Pennsylvania communities—reimburse hospitals on a fair and reasonable basis. Most of these plans pay actual charges. This lets the non-profit hospitals recover the costs outside their control. Quality care remains high, while patients' costs are kept as low as possible.

Payment by Blue Cross for patients' true costs is all we ask. It is this point, and this point alone, that prevents agreement between ourselves and Blue Cross. In fact, if we were reimbursed this way, any hospital could reduce published charges—a benefit for every patient, Blue Cross subscriber or not.

If you go to these hospitals...

you can concentrate on getting well. Even if Blue Cross does not repay you fully, these hospitals will do everything they can to ease the cost pinch: acceptance of recognized credit cards, extended payments, and arranging for bank loans are among the ways we'll help you work things out.

We believe you're entitled to the best of health care. We refuse to give you less than that, no matter what!

The Delaware Valley Hospital Council has invited Blue Cross to resume good-faith negotiations toward a new contract.

In the meantime, all of the hospitals listed in this advertisement have agreed to meet the medical needs of Blue Cross subscribers regardless of their benefit status. And, if Blue Cross fails to provide complete coverage, these hospitals will do everything possible to ease the financial burden.

L. Rockefeller is Board Chairman of Cancer Center

NEW YORK (AP) — Laurance Rockefeller is board chairman of the cancer center at which Happy Rockefeller, wife of his brother Nelson, underwent surgery Thursday for breast cancer.

Laurance's eminent position in the field of treatment and cure of cancer betokens three generations of Rockefeller family concern with the disease over a 90-year period.

It all started in 1884, when, according to a family spokesman, John D. Rockefeller contributed money to the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital.

It is evidenced now not only in the giant Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, in whose creation Laurance was a moving force, but also in Rockefeller University. The university, where major contributions to basic research have been made, evolved from the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, founded in the era of John D. Rockefeller Sr.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. took a deep interest in the cancer problem, soon after finishing college, spurred by the death from cancer of the sister of a classmate of his at Brown.

An anonymous annual contribution from the family at this time went to support research at the New York Cancer Hospital, and John D. Jr. contributed heavily from the year of its founding in 1913 to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, now the American Cancer Society.

In addition, John D. Jr. supported work by Madame Curie on medical use of radium.

His son Laurance was elected to the board of managers of the then Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases in 1947, and he became its president three years later.

Devil Worship Theory Ruled Out In Cat Killings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities are attributing a series of cat killings in the wealthy suburb of Brentwood to coyotes or other wild animals and are discounting an earlier theory that they were the work of devil worshipers.

"Last week a cat was found in the area with its stomach torn open," Lt. Roy Salls said in an interview Wednesday.

"The vet who performed the autopsy said it definitely was torn open by an animal — a coyote or bobcat or something from the nearby Santa Monica Mountains. There were marks on the bones and tear marks on the flesh itslef."

Salls, head of the police department's West Los Angeles community relations bureau, said of the seven mutilated cats found since June in a four-block area near the UCLA campus, "We believe only one might have been killed by humans."

Doctors Choose Surgical Compromise for Happy

NEW YORK (AP) — The doctors who operated on Happy Rockefeller for breast cancer chose a compromise between the radical mastectomy performed on Betty Ford and a simpler form of the operation.

"We left about half the pectoral (chest) muscle in, sort of a compromise," Dr. Jerome A. Urban, Mrs. Rockefeller's attending surgeon, told a news conference Thursday.

Decades of controversy over what kind of operation to perform for breast cancer has been revived in recent weeks in the swirl of publicity surrounding Betty Ford's operation and new research reports.

In the case of President Ford's wife, the doctors did a standard radical mastectomy, also called the Halsted mastectomy, in which the entire breast is removed, the underlying chest muscles are taken out and the lymph nodes in the armpit or axilla are excised.

This operation accounts for more than 90 per cent of the breast cancer surgery in this country, according to a panel of doctors at the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society, just a day before the operation on the wife of Nelson A. Rockefeller Surgeons at Memorial Hospital, a unit of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York, are known to favor the radical mastectomy.

In the case of Mrs. Rockefeller, they did a modified radical mastectomy, leaving in a major portion of the underlying chest muscle.

Some doctors advocate removing as little tissue as possible, in some cases only the tumor and some surrounding tissue or, in the case of a simple mastectomy, removing only the breast.

A study of 1,700 breast cancer patients, sponsored by the National Cancer Institute, was released two days after Mrs. Ford's surgery and found no difference between the effectiveness of radical mastectomy and simple mastectomy two years later.

But doctors agree that two years is not long enough to evaluate the effectiveness of a cancer treatment. Cancer survival rates are measured in terms of five and 10 years.

The American Cancer Society recommends either the radical or modified radical mastectomy for most cases of breast cancer, the society said Wednesday.

Mrs. Rockefeller's doctors said preliminary study indicated that her cancer had not spread to the lymph nodes, but further laboratory work is required to confirm this. This will take several days.

Based on the findings so far, Dr. Urban found her chances to be excellent — a better than 90 per cent chance of survival at 10 years.

Mrs. Rockefeller, who will leave the hospital in a week, is to begin rehabilitation work on Monday, largely arm exercises to avoid contraction in the armpit. Rehabilitation also is aimed at avoiding psychological complications.

Welfare Grants Slashed $61.7 Million This Half

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal welfare grants to the states have been slashed $61.7 million the last half of this year as the first shot at enforcing a crackdown on welfare abuses, the government announced Thursday.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the reduction includes $18.2 million the states had estimated they could save, and another $43.4 million withheld by HEW.

The intended effect of the fund reductions is to spur states to correct welfare payment errors faster. HEW estimates that 40 per cent of the 10.7 million adults and children receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) ar either ineligible for such aid or are being overpaid or underpaid.

James S. Dwight, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, said the additional federal fund cutback was based on interim error-reduction goals states must meet by Dec. 31.

'HANG ON VICKI' — Vicki Kaufholz, 24, spent Thursday as her first day as a fire fighter with the Cheyenne, Wyo., Fire Department. Miss Kaufholz, outscored four male applicants in the oral, written and physical test for the job. Miss Kaufholz was upset when the press showed up to cover her first day on the job. She locked herself in the lavatory and when she emerged, she flatly refused to be interviewed. She later turned a fire hose on a television cameraman. (AP Laserphoto).

United Way Reports 46 Per Cent of Goal

Forty six per cent of the 1974 campaign goal was reached at the second report meeting of the Pottstown Area United Way Monday at the Holiday Inn.

With more than $158,000 pledged, Alvin L. Weiss, campaign chairman, said, "most people are pledging a 10 per cent increase over last year's gift. A 10 per cent increase is needed on the part of all past contributors to teach this years goal."

The 1974 goal of $340,000 represents less than the amount requested by the 24 member agencies. Most requests were adjusted downward last spring by the budget committee based on the history of giving in this area to set an achievable goal.

"It is a challenging goal", said Weiss, "considering today's higher costs. As a result we are finding that a generous attitude on the part of contributors in the area is helping us reach this years goal."

The Zones division chaired by Mrs. James E. Smale Jr. leads with 79 per cent of goal achieved. Townships division chaired by Mrs. Isabel Binder has reached a 75 per cent of goal. Industrial division chaired by Richard K. Johnson with 58 per cent of goal leads the campaign in amount of dollars pledged.

Financial division, chaired by John Hendersched, reached 43 per cent of goal. Others are catching up quickly as solicitor kits are returning in anticipation of the third report meeting noon Monday at the Holiday Inn. All campaign workers are invited.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BODOR JR.

The Rev. Marvin DeWalt, pastor, officiated at a double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Margaret M. Foisel and George Bodor Jr. in St. Joseph's (Hill) Lutheran Church.

Organist was Mrs. Mary Etta Mest.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foisel Jr., Boyertown RD 4. A 1972 graduate of Boyertown Area High School and a 1973 graduate of Lehigh Community College with a certificate in medical assisting, she is employed at Pottstown Memorial Medical Center.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bodor Sr., 812 Willow St. A 1969 graduate of Pottstown High School, he attended Temple Technology School, Philadelphia, and is employed as a machinist at Mrs. Smith's Foil Co.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Terry K. Ritter, maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jean Ann Bodor, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Bonnie Tillger, the bridegroom's sister. Lydia Jean Irwin was flower girl.

Raymond Feight was best man. Stephen Paup and David Tillger, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, were ushers.

A reception at North End Fire Co. followed the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to the New England states and Canada, the newlyweds will reside at Boyertown RD 4.

Childbirth meeting set

A program, "Why Prepared Childbirth?" will be presented by the Pottstown Area Childbirth Education Association 8 p.m. Oct. 22 at Zion Lutheran Church, Route 724, Spring City.

Dr. Michael Lemert, obstetrician; Dr. Fred Burg, pediatrician, and Dr. George Fago, psychologist, will participate in a panel discussion. A film, "The Story of Eric," will be shown.

Mrs. Kathleen Aaronson, 236 Bridge St., Spring City, is in charge of babysitting reservations.

If you haven't kept maple syrup in a cool dry place, it may be fermented. The fermentage, however, does not spoil the syrup; to restore it to its normal flavor, heat it to the boiling point and skim. Turn into a jar, cover tightly and refrigerate.

Probabilities

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs and North leads the jack of spades, which you win with the king. You return a club, South following low. Would you play the ten or the queen at this point?

West		East
♠ 5	N	♠ AK873
♥ AKQ	W E	♥ J102
♦ 63	S	♦ AKQJ
♣ AQ109876		♣ 2

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Seven Hearts and hold the K-J-9-8-6-5 of trumps facing dummy's A-10-7. When you play the five to the ace North produces the deuce and South the three, and when you play the ten South produces the four. Do you play the king or do you finesse?

1. Either play may fail or succeed, depending on the distribution, so, in choosing which card to finesse, the best thing to do is to play according to percentages.

In attempting to discover the proper percentage play, you start by eliminating from the reckoning those hands where your play makes no difference. Thus all those hands where North has the K-J-x, or x-x, or x, or K-x-x, or J-x-x, and so on are disregarded. The outcome is the same in all these cases, whatever you do.

The hands meriting attention are those where South has K-x-x, J-x-x, J-x-x-x, or K-x-x-x. The first two may be bypassed because South is as likely to hold one as the other, and the ten will gain exactly as often as the queen.

The third case is also ignored because you lose two tricks whether you play the ten or the queen.

It is the fourth case that makes the queen the better play than the ten. This is because you lose only one trick by playing the queen, but two tricks by playing the ten. And so, the queen is the correct percentage play.

2. In the absence of clues indicating otherwise, you should play the king. South will be dealt x-x in 20.35 deals out of 100, and Q-x-x in 18.65 deals out of 100. It is therefore better to go up with the king—because that is the winning play in the long run.

However, the advantage of playing for the drop is so slight that almost any clue indicating that North is somewhat more likely to have a singleton than a doubleton should be enough to induce you to finesse.

The New Who, Rod Stewart and John Lennon Albums are Worth the Wait

By AL RUDIS
Chicago Daily News Service

It's been a long wait for new albums by The Who, Rod Stewart and John Lennon. They're finally here, and turn out to be well worth the wait.

The Who's Odds & Sods" (Track Records and Tapes) is a collection of odds and ends from studio tape spools that go all the way back to 1964 and the band's first single, "I'm The Face." As an album, it's sort of a breather after the magnificent "Quadrophenia" (track records and tapes), just as "Live at Leeds" gave the band some air after "Tommy" (Both Decca Records and tapes).

For Who fanatics, "Odds & Sods" is a must, as much for historical and development interest as for its music. For those whose only contact with The Who has been Tommy, this is not the best means to become better acquainted. Try "Who's Next" (Track records and tapes) or "Quadrophenia" or "Meaty, Beaty, Big and Bouncy" (Track records and tapes) first. Then come back to "Odds & Sods" with the background to appreciate it.

The album was put together by bassist John Entwistle, and the opening song, "Postcard," was written by him. It's in the tradition of his best black humor, being a series of chauvinistic messages written while on a world rock tour.

The rest of the songs, but one, were written by Pete Townshend, and his comments on the numbers are both amusing and illuminating. "Put the Money Down" contains a reference to Alice Cooper — doubly amusing because the song's theme parallels that of Alice's "Second Coming" — and a theme that later pops up in Quadrophenia.

"Little Billy" is probably the best antismoking commercial ever written, and if the American Cancer Society is listening out there, it's still not too late, despite the executive bumbler who's been sitting on it since The Who submitted it in 1968. With good, imaginative animation, "Little Billy" would make a terrific 2¼ minute cartoon.

"Too Much of Anything" and "Faith in Something Bigger" are philosophical but a bit strong on preachiness and short on good music. "Naked Eye," on the other hand, is also deep stuff, but a terrific number, the album's best. Pete's notes explain that the song was held up to try and get a better live version, and it's true that live the song, which The Who has been playing at the end of sets for a long time, has developed quite a bit beyond this 1969 recording, which is great in itself.

"Glow Girl" is a rock and roll plane crash song, which used a riff later taken for "Tommy," as is pointed out at the end of the song. "Pure and Easy" appeared on Peter Townshend's solo album, "Who Came First" (Decca Records and Tapes), and this version is of interest because it shows how Pete's songs change subtly but perceptably when done by the whole band.

"I'm The Face" is full of youthful naivete and will bring a smile to many a Who-ophile's face. The lyrics, written by The Who's first manager, are about those two important mod types — faces and tickets — and there's a session piano player who boggie-woogies up a blue funk, plus a mouth harp bit right out of The Beatles. And the wind-up is a rock and roll anthem, "Long Live Rock," which combines terrific "Subterranean Homesick Blues" — type stanzas with the proclamation of the chorus. Pete's notes disparage this type of cheap call to arms, but this great song is an exception to the rule.

An early rock anthem, "Sweet Little Rock and Roller," leads off Rod Stewart's "Smiler" (Mercury Records and Tapes), and Rod's reading is simply dynamite. He gets totally into the spirit of Chuck Berry's classic, and the result is a version that is every bit as wonderful as the original.

After a brief cool-off with a harpsichord interlude comes a folky number, "Farewell," arranged in the style of "Maggie May" and "Mandolin Wind." The tune is pleasant, the lyrics sad-happy sentimental and the singing and playing excellent.

"Sailor," however, is Rod as a macho bad-boy once again, expressing similar sentiments to those in "Stay With Me" but without a good tune to make the distateful lyrics palatable. Maybe it's the proximity, but the next number, a medley of Sam Cooke hits "Bring It on Home to Me" and "You Send Me," rings hollow and insincere. Maybe it's also the oversweetness of the arrangement.

"Let Me Be Your Car" is by Elton John and Bernie Taupin, and Elton helps out on piano and vocals. It's not a bad number, but with all that help, it doesn't sound much like Rod Stewart.

Similarly, the acoustic arrangement and impassioned vocal are fine on "You Make Me Feel Like) a Natural Man," but if you've heard Aretha Franklin's version, your mind will probably never accept another.

After that, however, the album is clear sailing to the end. "Dixie Toot" features the nasty Rod once again, but this time in a terrific song by him and Ron Wood, supported by some great playing on a fine arrangement that features a little Dixieland.

And then comes the album's best all-out rocker, "Hard Road," which sounds as though The Faces are playing it. If this becomes the single it's going to bludgeon all those singers who are having beach babies because they honestly love each other right off the airwaves. With it, the rock portion of the album is over, signalled by an acoustic guitar interlude.

But remaining are a soft, slowed-down version of Bob Dylan's "Girl From the North Country," done with a fine arrangement, featuring strings. It's Frank Sinatra, a la Rod Stewart, right down to Rod's excellent coda. And the album's closer, "Mine For Me" by Paul McCartney, is done in a similar vein, gently with a fine acoustic arrangement, this time featuring steel drums, and again a nice coda. Smiler may not be Rod's best album, but it's good enough to indicate that he's back on the right track and the best is probably straight ahead.

John Lennon's "Walls and Bridges" (Apple Records and Tapes) similarly demonstrates that not only is Lennon not washed up but that he's on his way back to the forefront of pop musicians.

The first two numbers on the album, while not disgracefully bad, don't support this claim. "Going Down on Love" has lots of repetition and a fair tune, and "Whatever Gets You Through the Night" is a reworking of "Jealous Guy," with a nice sax solo by Bobby Keys.

Then comes the first of the beauties, "Old Dirt Road," written together with Harry Nilsson and featuring shimmering strings and terrific guitar by Jesse Ed Davis supporting mirage-like imagery. "What You Got," which follows, is one of those tight, spare soul numbers with a chanting vocal that either drives you up the wall or gets your body moving, and "Bless You" is a moving ballad, with a Brazilian flavor and pretty electric piano in a dream-like arrangement. It sounds as though it's addressed to Yoko Ono.

"Scared" starts off with wolf sounds and goes on into a song of personal angst. This is still John Lennon casting out the devils within his mind, but now he's got them controlled enough to restrain them within musical and lyrical bounds. No intensity is lost, but art is gained. A nice sax solo and more wonderful guitar by Jesse Ed back up John's excellent vocal. Jesse Ed Davis is simply amazing throughout the album, establishing himself as an underrated guitar player who will soon be going places.

"No. 9 Dream" is another pretty number, with a chorus in a language I don't recognize, but which sounds great. It's followed by a weak number, "Surprise, Surprise (Sweet Bird of Paradox)," and a strong put-down (maybe of Allen Klein, his former manager) called "Steel and Glass."

The band is so good on this and "Beef Jerky," the terrific instrumental that follows, that one wishes Lennon would take the bunch out on tour. "Beef Jerky" is a dance number, with a "Soul Finger," "Tequila" yell in the middle, that will be a discotheque favorite.

"Nobody Loves You (When You're Down ad Out)" concludes that album in a deeply personal perspective once more, but again in an artistic manner, with a string arrangement reminiscent of "Mind Games," some more great Jesse Ed Guitar and a terrific whistling coda. It's followed by John and his 11-year-old son, Julian, playing the plodders on a minute of Lee Dorsey's "Ya Ya," which can be interpreted in many ways, but which I think is merely a birthday present or something of the sort.

Lennon's album, as well as Stewart's and The Who's, is nicely packaged, with interesting graphics, pull-out materials and the like. The trio of albums proves that there are still musicians around who take special pains with their music and presentation. The Who album shows a sense of group confidence in putting out some items of high interest, even though they may not be the highest quality. The Stewart and Lennon albums show old friends musically revitalized. And together all three inject some vitality into the music scene, too.

Another FAMILY WEEKLY Exclusive—October 19

Kirk Douglas:
Is Hollywood's "Feistiest" Star Finally Mellowing?

"I used to be a perfectionist. But maybe that's the easy way out. Now that I've matured, I can see myself more clearly. The longer I'm in the business, the more I realize that I need help — that everybody does."

Over the years, few actors have been as "controversial" in entertainment circles as veteran Kirk Douglas. He has been called egotistical, argumentative — and in the words of one famous director, he acts as if an atom bomb were about to go off. This week, Douglas opens up for FAMILY WEEKLY. Read his opinions on acting, directing and producing — and why, after his wife produced one of his films, he decided, in spite of her success, that he would never let her do it again!

'A Woman Under the Influence'

John Cassavetes Film Illustrates Reality of Marriage

BY FRANCES TAYLOR
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — John Cassavetes's new film, "A Woman Under the Influence," was conceived and produced because his wife, Gena Rowlands, asked him to "think of a part" for her

Serious about her profession, she wanted a part that illuminated some facet of life, of the kind of life most of us live

Cassavetes, who has made seven extraordinary films beginning with an underground movie 12 years ago, is remembered as the husband in "Rosemary's Baby." The films he has written and directed include "Husbands" and "Minnie and Moscowitz." His newest film will open in a few weeks.

"I did this film to show the plight of a woman whose devotion to her husband is such that she's actually married to his family, his friends, his house," Cassavetes says. "Her whole life is dictated by her husband's choices."

"A Woman Under the Influence" is an absorbing and provocative film. Its exploration of a marriage will be familiar to many husbands and wives. Unlike "Scenes From a Marriage," the fine Bergman film about upper middle-class marriage, this movie is on a level common to millions of movie-goers. The husband is a construction worker. The house is not elegant, but sturdy and old-fashioned.

The wife has no real place of her own. Even her love for her children is circumscribed by what her husband considers acceptable behavior. The wife sinks into confusion because her obsessive love of her husband makes her a shadow of the man. She is losing touch with herself, or perhaps never had been aware of her own independent personality.

Peter Falk, TV's "Columbo," plays the husband.

"I wanted so much not to have her unrelated to other women," Gena Rowlands says of her character, Mabel. "This woman goes crazy for a while but what's important is her frustration and her enormous desire to make her marriage work, to meet her responsibility to her dids."

In spite of her complete devotion to her husband, Mabel can't help feeling she also should function as a person in her own right.

Both sets of parents, his and hers, contribute love, criticism, understanding and confusion.

This is one of the movie's achievements, describing the influence of families on marriages.

Performances by Rowlands, Falk, Katherine Cassavetes (John's real mother) and Lady Rowlands (Yes, her mother) are on the highest level. Having been an actor in film and TV for many years before his first directing job, Cassavetes always evokes rich, living acting from his cast.

"I hope and I think this film makes clear our views and our experiences," he says. "A film has to please us in this way, it has to reach people with what we think and feel."

Cassavetes spends many months editing a film. For "A Woman Under the Influence," an editing problem was retention of the air of family life. "We wanted to keep the feeling of being in an actual home," he says. "We are making a study of emotions with a delicate treatment and yet in the reality of a home like millions of homes."

If you saw "Faces" or "Husbands" you already know that a film by Cassavetes is wedded to reality, to people and places and language experienced by most people.

In "A Woman Under the Influence," every character is one you could meet almost anywhere. Yet each character becomes unforgettable because when the movie ends you've come to know him or her.

'The Gambler'

Reisz Makes Comeback With New Movie

By ROGER EBERT
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — Karel Reisz had directed or produced some of the most interesting British films of the last 15 years without ever quite becoming as much a public figure as, say, Tony Richardson or Ken Russell. But examine his credits: "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning," "Morgan," "Isadora," and "This Sporting Life," the film that made Richard Harris a star, was produced by Reisz and directed by Richardson.

Reisz is known as a perfectionist who chooses his properties carefully and works for months on his screenplays. But, even for him, the five years' lapse since "Isadora" has been a discouraging time. That was a 150-minute biography of Isadora Duncan, starring Vanessa Redgrave, and its original version inspired praise but not much business. Its American distributor chopped whole scenes and sections out of it, released it as "Loves of Isadora," saw it do even worse business, and for a time made Reisz almost unemployable.

Those years were spent first on preparations to film Andre Malraux's "Man's Fate," a project that Fred Zinnemann has also worked on, and that proved too expensive; and then with a screenplay he worked on with John Le Carre "And could never quite get right."

Then one day a first script by a young New Yorker, Jame Toback, came in over the transon, and Reisz liked it at once. It was "The Gambler," about an intellectual college teacher who uses his compulsive gambling losses as a means of testing himself. Reisz, who hadn't previously worked in America, came to New York, spent six months with Toback rewriting the screenplay, and cast James Caan as his professorial risk-taker. The result is filmmaking on an intense, fascinating scale; A movie that's at once a character study and a thriller.

"The Gambler" runs the risk of being considered merely a case study of compulsive gambling, sort of a tract for gamblers anonymous. It's much more than that. It gives us a sense of three generations of a family, and we develop a pretty complete notion of why its hero, in his mid-30s, seeks so desperately to fail.

He is the grandson of an immigrant, still active at 80, who came to America with nothing in his pocket, fought and killed his way into a position of power, and then went on to attain respectability as the head of the nation's largest chain of furniture stores. His mother is a doctor, capable and independent.

He is, he supposes, an intellectual, but in his classes he seems somehow to select those authors and passages that reinforce his own personality: He finds in Thoreau, Dostoyevsky, William Carlos Williams support for his own behavior (behavior which, of the three, only the streak gambler Dostoyevsky might have understood).

"This film doesn't make judgments," Reisz said during a recent interview. It's a movie about what this man is like and how he feels — not whether he's good or bad. He's a kind of hero, in a way, because he acts out his desires as an 18th century romantic might have. He doesn't sublimate, he knows the risks, and he's driven to create uncertainty."

Reisz said his character has "the thirst of the intellectual to leave his books, to act, to experience life." At the same time, his immediate life offers him little opportunity to do that. His grandfather fought and won, his mother found a way to express herself importantly in a profession, but he finds his teaching ultimately sterile (even though he's good at it) and he has to structure these artificial ways to risk and win and, usually, lose.

"The film is being received in some quarters as a problem picture, a message picture, but at the narrative level this is a pure thriller," Reisz said, not without a trace of pride. "The film is dark and jagged and tense, and its structure is strange. We start at a high level of despair — here's this man who owes $44,000 he doesn't have — and then we deaccelerate, in a way, to look at his girl, his job, the fairly comic associates around him. And then we begin to build back to the crisis again. Since you already know how bad things can be, the fear that they'll get that worse again creates the tension."

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures moved nervously over a wide price range on th nation's major exchanges Thursday and most closed lower.

In the farm commodity group, soybeans and corn futures touched limits lower, but bounced back before the close on the Chicago Board of Trade. But soybeans wer sharply lower, along with soybean oil and meal. Corn and oats also lost ground, but wheat futures gained up to 8 cents a bushel. Iced broilers were a shade lower after a rather modest trade.

Live hog futures fell up to 78 cents per hundredweight on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, while pork bellies registered losses of 30 to 100 points. Live cattle were steady to some 80 cents per hundredweight higher, but shell eggs lost 15 to 160 points.

Other grain futures fluctuated with soybeans and corn on the way down, but the recovery was slow in the final minutes. The strength in wheat was thought to have been inspired by possibilities of continued business with Russia.

A sounder cash market contributed to the demand for live cattle futures, but live hog and pork bellies selling was linked to the weakness in grains.

At the close on the CBOT, soybeans were 4 to 19 cents a bushel lower, November 8.36; Chicago wheat was 4 to 8 higher, December 5.17; Gulf wheat did not trade, corn was 2 to 5½ lower, December 3.81; and oats were 2 to 2½ lower, December 1.91.

Market Observes Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Closing New York Stock Exchange Index:

Market	+27 cents
Index	37.52	+0.40
Industrial	40.70	+0.49
Transportation	28.11	+0.42
Utility	27.57	+0.14
Finance	39.69	+0.29

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock mrket turned back som early profit taking, as blue chips and glamors led the list to a moderate gain Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 9.15 to 651.44, and gainers topped losers, 765 to 590 of the 1,755 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. In the opening hour, the Dow had been down more than 2 points, and declines were more than 2 to 1 ahead of advances.

A number of analysts took heart from the day's performance, saying the afternoon recovery after the last two day's sharp losses tended to confirm the genuineness of last week's sparkling rally.

The Big Board's composite index of all listed common stocks rose 0.40 to 37.52.

Volume was a moderate 14.47 million shares, down slightly from Wednesday's 14.79 million.

The day produced a mixed bag of economic news. On the plus side were more signs the Federal Reserve was allowing interest rates to dcline further, coupled with news the nation's money supply had dropped $400 million in the latest reporting week.

But the Commerce Department reported the real gross national product had declined for the third straight quarter, accompanied by an 11.5 per cent inflation rate.

AMP, Inc., the most-active NYSE issue, fll 3¾ to 21.

Leading the advance by bluechip issues was Eastman Kodak, which rose 4⅝ to 69⅛ in lively trading.

TRADITION — Residents and visitors of the Washington County community of Cambridge, N.Y., are annually treated to a tradition started by the late Albert Rice. When the weather permits the antique Ford popcorn wagon is still driven to the business section of the village to sell popcorn and peanuts. The fully-operational vehicle features a mechanical clown which cranks out popcorn to the delight of spectators. (AP Laserphoto)

Couple Must Divide Million Equally

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A couple who won $1 million in the state lottery must divide the proceeds equally, a Fayette County judge has ruled.

Judge John I. Munson handed down the decision Wednesday, providing that Phillip W. Sutton Sr. and Rose Ann Sutton split $900,000 over the next 18 years. Beginning in July 1975, the Suttons will each receive $25,000 per year.

Sutton had filed suit against his wife after she left him and moved to Florida with the first payment of $50,000. She claimed that the entire $1 million prize was hers because her name was written on the back of the 50-cent ticket.

Sutton claimed he had purchased the lottery ticket on Feb. 28, 1973.

Sutton's attorney said his client has since made arrangment to share the first $100,00.

Mason said in his ruling that Sutton's attorney had "proved by a preponderance of evidence" that he had a right to recover $450,000 from his wife.

Pro Picks

Patriots Are Rated to Score Sixth Straight Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's an old axiom. Stick with a winner, even when things get sticky.

That's why we're looking for the New England Patriots to fool the oddsmakers and run their National Football League record to 6-0 with an Upset Special of the Week victory over the Buffalo Bills.

Of course, it doesn't hurt to stick with the losers, either. That's what we're looking for— losses by the Houston Oilers, who'll keep the St. Louis Cardinals' record perfect, and by the Baltimore Colts, who'll keep their record perfectly awful by caving in against the New York Jets.

We're not sticking with all the losers, though. It's about time Dallas won another one. Look for the Cowboys to shoot down the Philadelphia Eagles.

Your Fearless Football Forecaster's record improved to 4420-1 for a .688 percentage with last week's 10-3 mark. This weekend's schedule is one of the hairier ones of the year and we'll be happy to do that well again.

Patriots 27, Bills 20

Until last Sunday, we would have been inclined to go with Buffalo based on its balance and what seemed to be a vulnerable New England pass defense. Not any more, considering what the Pats did to Joe Namath and the Jets.

Joe Ferguson will have his hands full, trying to pass past the teeth of the Patriots' pass rush. Jim Plunkett will have a bit more success throwing the ball for New England. The ground game will be brutal and evenly matched.

Cardinals 42, Oilers 17

See Jim Hart pass . . . and pass . . . and pass . . . The Houston defense doesn't have seams. It has chasms. The only thing the Cards have to avoid is thinking too far ahead—to their game with Washington on Oct. 27.

Jets 35, Colts 13

After last week's miserable showing, Namath and the Jets have something to prove—to furious Coach Charley Winner, to their disgruntled fans and, most of all, to themselves. Don't expect Baltimore to come up with a victory for a month or so.

Cowboys 28, Eagles 21

The Eagles believe they found their offense and defense last week—but finding them against the Giants means little. They'll find the going tougher against Dallas, which would have won had it not given St. Louis a lengthy last-minute runback. The Cowboys know they're dead in the playoff race if they lose.

Raiders 24, Bengals 17

Just being home for a change should give Oakland a shot in the arm. The Raiders will give Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson a couple, too.

Dolphins 28, Chiefs 13

Bob Griese won't have to worry about bringing Miami back from behind this week. He'll have to be more concerned with complacency. The Chiefs' defense will have its moments—but not enough of them.

Rams 27, 49ers 16

It's not so much the Los Angeles offense. It's San Francisco's lack of one. James Harris gets his big start at quarterback for the Rams and he'll have plenty to work with . . . plenty of room in the 49ers' secondary, that is.

Vikings 27, Lions 15

Minnesota can give up all the yardage it wants to—up to the goal line. Then it's head-busting time. Detroit looked like it could have been burned last Monday night by a decent attack. The Vikes have one.

Steelers 30, Browns 14

Falcons 21, Saints 10

Archie Manning and the rest of the Saints may be sick of losing on the road. Playing an angry Atlanta squad that lost to them earlier this season is hardly the remedy. The Falcons may not be going anywhere but that's further than New Orleans . . .

Redskins 31, Giants 10

. . . and further than New York. The Giants are in bad shape, starting at quarterback. Washington's Sonny Jurgensen has a pretty amusing shape for a quarterback, with that belly of his. But there's nothing funny about his arm.

Broncos 27, Chargers 21

Denver's finally moving, sort of. It doesn't matter whether the Broncos have Charley Johnson or Steve Ramsey tossing the ball. It'll get where it's thrown. San Diego keeps coming close—but this ain't horseshoes.

Packers 23, Bears 13

The oddsmakers list the Bears as a one-point Monday night favorite. We don't buy it, even if they are at home. Green Bay's defense may not be the greatest, but it can certainly handle anything Gary Huff and the Bears can muster.

Malone Is Feature In ABA's Opening

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new-look American Basketball Association, sporting wholesale changes in players, coaches and owners, launches its eighth season Friday night . . . with a Moses in its midst.

Moses is Moses Malone, the sensational teen-ager who was signed by the Utah Stars following his graduation from Petersburg, Va. High School. The 6-foot-11 Malone, one of the few players in basketball history ever to make the jump directly from high school into the pros, was expected to be brought along slowly by Bucky Buckwalter, the Stars' new coach.

But the heralded youngster performed so well during exhibition games that he will start at forward for the Stars in Friday night's opening game against the defending league champion New York Nets. In other openers, San Antonio will be at Indiana, St. Louis, the league's newest franchise, will entertain Memphis, and Kentucky will be home against Denver.

The 19-year-old Malone was most impressive in the Stars' exhibitions.

"He's going to be a helluva player," said Virginia Coach Al Bianchi. "It's just a matter of how quickly he matures."

"Mo's learning about as fast as anyone I've ever seen," commented Buckwalter. "He progressed each game."

Malone's progress should be severely tested by the Nets and their own cast of stars, including dynamic Julius Erving, last season's scoring champion and Most Valuable Player Award winner.

In addition to Malone, the league's highly touted rookies include: All-American Marvin Barnes from Providence, Maurice Lucas from Marquette, James "Fly" Williams from Austin Peay and Gus Gerard from Virginia, all with the new St. Louis team.

A's Top Dodgers For Third Straight Championship

OAKLAND (AP) — Joe Rudi's seventh-inning home run broke a tie and gave the Oakland A's a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and their third straight World Series championship Thursday night.

The A's took the Series four games to one and in four of the five games the final score was 3-2. Rudi, an under-rated star who is often lost in the glitter of more outspoken Oakland teammates, smashed Mike Marshall's first pitch into the left field stands for the run that won the game and the title.

In the eighth, relief ace Rollie Fingers came out of the Oakland bullpen to nail down the victory and when the A's recorded the game's final out, a huge celebration started on the field with fans and players swarming over each other while fireworks exploded behind the outfield wall.

Rudi's homer was Oakland's second of the evening. Ray Fosse swatted one off Dodger starter Don Sutton in the second inning and the A's got their other run on a first-inning rally that featured two singles, a walk and a throwing error by catcher Steve Yeager.

The save was the second of the Series for Fingers, who also was credited with the A's firstgame victory. And the irony of this one was that he preserved the victory for John "Blue Moon" Odom.

On the eve of the Series, Fingers and Odom had battled in the Oakland clubhouse and both pitchers suffered minor injuries.

The save was no cinch for Fingers, who needed another tremendous play by second baseman Dick Green to escape eighth-inning trouble.

Fingers was chosed the Series' Most Valuable Player.

Bill Buckner opened the Dodgers' eighth with a single to right-center and when the ball skipped past center fielder Bill North for an error, Buckner raced to second.

He should have stopped right there, but he never looked at right fielder Reggie Jackson, who ran the ball down.

Jackson relayed to Green, whose pinpoint throw to third baseman Sal Bando caught Buckner in a close play.

It was the last real shot the Dodgers had at the A's, who needed seve games to beat Cincinnati in the 1972 World Series and another seven to beat the New York Mets in 1973.

The A's took the early lead, scoring single runs in the first two innings and again following the Series-long pattern of taking advantage of Los Angeles mistakes.

In the first, Bert Campaneris opened with a single against Sutton. Bill North forced Campy and on the first pitch to Sal Bando, North took off for second.

The American League basestealing leader with 54 during the regular season, beat Yeager's throw easily and when the ball skipped into center field, North jumped to his feet and raced to third.

It was the sixth Dodger error of the five-game Series and, a moment later, Bando made Los Angeles pay for it with a long sacrifice fly.

It was hardly an unusual accomplishment for the A's captain, who led the American League with 13 sacrifice flies during the regular season.

What happened next, though, was rather unusual.

Fosse led off the second inning and sent Sutton's one-strike pitch deep into the lower left field seats for a home run, making the score 2-0.

Fosse had hit only four homers during the regular season and had managed only one previous hit in the Series for an .091 batting average in the classic. He was obviously due, since he had batted 105 points more than that (.196) during the regular season.

Vida Blue protected that 2-0 lead until the sixth inning.

Pinch-hitter Tom Paciorek, batting for Sutton, started the rally with a first-pitch double. After Davey Lopes walked, Buckner sacrificed the runners to second and third.

Jimmy Wynn's sacrifice fly scored Paciorek and, a moment later, Steve Garvey's single tied the score. It was the eighth hit of the Series for Garvey— most by any player on either team.

In the seventh, Blue retired the first two batters but then walked Yeager. When the first two pitches to Marshall were out of the strike zone, Manager Alvin Dark lifted his starter and brought in Odom.

Bruins Down Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Phil Esposito scored two goals to lead Boston to a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers Thursday night, giving the Bruins their first National Hockey League win of the season.

The victory puts Boston's record at 1-2-1 in the Adams Division of the National Hockey League, while the Flyers now are 2-2 in the Lester Patrick Division.

The Bruins broke a scoreless tie at 6:11 of the second period when Esposito took a perfect pass from Ken Hodge, went in alone on Flyers goalie Bernie Parent and hit the lower left corner of the net.

Boston made it 2-0 at 15:09 of the same period. The Flyers Ross Lonsberry went off for holding at 14:04 and Espositio, standing in the slot, fired a 20footer past Parent.

The Bruins iced the game with two goals in a 50-second span of the final stanza.

Terry O'Reilly scored on a deflected shot from the right point by Carol Vadnais at 6:44, and Hodge scored his third goal of the season at 7:34 of the period.

Philadelphia scored its lone goal of the game at 15:40 of the final period when Gary Dornhoefer beat Ross Brooks for an unassisted score.

Fritz Qualifies For State Tourney

Mark Fritz of Pottstown shot three-over-par 74 at Valley Forge Golf Course Thursday to take sixth place in the District One golf tournament and qualify for the PIAA state championship Oct. 24-26 at Penn State University.

Laura Martin of Phoenixville, the Ches-Mont League girls' individual champion, placed second in the girls' competition and also qualified for the state tournament.

Fritz, the long-driving Trojan captain and Ches-Mont boys' runnerup, followed his first round 76 with 74 for a 150 total. He powered the ball off the tee, hit 16 of 18 fairway, and birdied two holes.

The district medalist was Upper Dublin's Nevin Sutliff, who scored even par 71 Tuesday and fired two-under 69 Thursday for a 141 total.

Eight strokes back at 149 were Mike Forgash of Conestoga, James Robertson of Lower Merion, and Pennsbury teammates Rich Stanford and Russ Elkan.

Brian Faust shot his second straight 78 to finish at 156 as first alternate. Second alternate is Ted Michaels of Phoenixville, who finished 12th at 157 after rounds of 78-79. Pottstown sophomore Ted Smith was 21st with a 162 total.

In the girls' tournament, Miss Martin scored 98 from the back tees and trailed medalist Meredith Marshall of Upper Merion by one stroke. The first six girls advanced to the state championship.

With A's

Dark Had Faith in Club

OAKLAND (AP) — Alvin dark played a waiting game as manager of the Oakland A's, and he had faith all along they would come up with another baseball world championship.

"It seemed like—since they'd won two straight World Series—they were going through the season just looking forward to playing in it again," Dark said Thursday night after the club he inherited from Dick Williams finished off the Los Angeles Dodgers with a fifthgame, 3-2 victory.

"I knew the series would bring out the best in them," he said.

The A's players granted the National League champions some praise as they celebrated to the sound of whoops and popping champagne corks.

But they tempered it with some verbal digs.

"If anything, they need a little more humility," third baseman and team captain Sal Bando said. "They're a good club, but I'm surprised they didn't scramble and claw more. Maybe they were a little nervous."

Joe Rudi, who won Thursday night's game with a home run leading off the bottom of the seventh, said it was the same old story—a National League team taking the A's a little lightly.

"After they beat Pittsburgh in the playoffs, the Dodgers said they weren't impressed by us. Well, they've got all winter to think about it," Rudi said.

"They're a good team, but we're the best," said shortstop Bert Campaneris with a chuckle.

Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey roamed around the A's clubhouse congratulating the victors and told Dark, "You beat us fair and square."

Right fielder Reggie Jackson, who combined with second baseman Dick Green on the fielding play which killed the Dodgers' last scoring hope, said, "I don't think the Dodgers played up to their capabilities."

Jackson added, "Joe Rudi's homer was the key, but that play on Buckner was a big factor, too. I just turned and threw. Greenie had the tough job."

Green took a perfect throw from Jackson, who picked up a ball which had skidded past center fielder Bill North, and pegged the ball on one run.

Dark, whose only previous World Series managing job was in a losing cause with the 1961 San Francisco Giants, kept an A's World Series trend going by taking out his starting pitcher in each game against Los Angeles.

Boyertown Girls Post Hockey Win

Carol Sauppe's two goals gave Boyertown (4-0-1) a 2-0 girls' field hockey victory over host West Chester East Thursday.

Kyle Hogstrom scored for Pottstown (0-4-1) in a 1-1 tie with Phoenixville. The Trojanettes lost the junior varsity game, 1-0.

Knicks Top Jazz

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks, with Earl Monroe and Phil Jackson scoring the key points, spoiled the National Basketball Association debut of the injury-riddled New Orleans Jazz, beating the league's newest team 89-74 Thursday night in the season opener for both clubs.

Bear Golfers Win

Jerry Lynch's six-over-par round of 76 led Boyertown (3-6) to a 421-423 Ches-Mont League golf victory over Great Valley (0-7) Thursday at Twin Ponds Golf Club.

At Twin Ponds GC

BOYERTOWN (421) — Jerry Lunch 76, Mike Stahl 83, Gary Carpenter 84, Bill Moyer 85, Rory Emery 93.

High School Roundup

Trojans Seek 4th in Row

Pottstown shoots for its fourth straight victory while Boyertown tries to halt a four-game slide tonight when the two Ches-Mont League rivals meet at 8 at Grigg Memorial Field.

In other area games, Perkiomen School travels to Academy of New Church at 3 p.m., and Perkiomen Valley visits North Penn at 8.

Pottstown, which is 3-1 Ches-Mont and 5-1 overall after dumping Spring-Ford, 34-7, owns a 15-10-3 advantage in the series with Boyertown. The Bears (0-4, 1-4) are coming off a 27-13 loss to Coatesville.

Setbacks to league co-leaders Pottsgrove and Great Valley preceded the Coatesville game. Next week for the Bears is Phoenixville.

"In order to compete and to be in the games, we have to play good football," said Boyertown Coach Lyn Sorber. "I still think Pottstown is a very good football team. They've got everything."

"They haven't been out of any game, as far as I know," said Pottstown Coach Bill Rogers. "They have good personnel, and they could very easily be sitting with two or three more wins now."

"Each team has a very good offense," Rogers continued. "I think defense will be the difference. They will move the ball and score, and we hope we can move the ball and score too."

"We hope we play defense like we did earlier this year, because we haven't been to consistent on defense."

Sorber said sophomore linemen Gary Galloway and Jeff Herb will play more tonight.

Perkiomen School (2-2) has won two games with shutouts and has been blanked twice. The Indians take a 1-1 Penn-Jersey Conference record to ANC.

Perkiomen Valley (0-4 Bux-Mont League, 1-4 overall) also tries to snap a four-game losing streak tonight at North Penn (0-3 Bux-Mont).

Squirrel Season To Open Saturday

HARRISBURG — Another surge in Pennsylvania's fall hunting activities will be recorded with the opening of the early small game season Saturday.

Squirrel and grouse will be the small game species that can be hunted on that date. Seasons on most of the other small game species open one week later.

For years squirrels have probably been the state's most underharvested small game species, and field reports indicate that there should be a fairly good supply of bushytails this year, with local exceptions.

Hunters are permitted to take six squirrels daily, and may have twelve in their possession after the opening day of the season.

Some grouse concentrations can be found scattered throughout the state, but not necessarily in locations that were productive last year. Two of these birds may be taken per day, with a possession limit of four after the first day of the season.

The initial squirrel and grouse season ends Nov. 30.

Junior Vikings Shut Out Falcons

Perkiomen Valley Junior High evened its football record at 2-2 Thursday by blanking Pottsgrove, 24-0. Dave Forrest scored two touchdowns, Dan McIlroy passed to Jim Trankle for the third, and Dan McGallagher ran for the Vikings' fourth TD in the first half.

Sirica Delays Nixon Decision

Nixon's lawyer argued that written questions and answers submitted by Ehrlichman to Nixon should be sufficient. Prosecution and defense lawyers said that would be unacceptable.

On Oct. 3, in asking that Nixon be excused, Miller said in court papers that the physical condition of the former President was such that if he testified there would be "the risk of permanent injury or incapacitation.

On Thursday, Miller said in court, "The prognosis . . . is very good at the moment."

Besides asking for doctors' names, Sirica said he wanted prosecution and defense lawyers to determine who should pay for any medical inquiry.

Of the projected report on Nixon's health, Sirica said, "I'm quite certain it's going to be favorable."

Earlier Thursday, more than one hundred persons in the courtroom, including Sirica, donned earphones to hear the first of more than 30 White House tapes.

With chief prosecution witness John W. Dean III listening as he sat on the witness stand, the jury and spectators heard former President Richard M. Nixon praise his former counsel.

Nixon said Dean's handling of the cover-up three months after the break-in at Democratic National headquarters "has been very skillful because you — putting your fingers in the dikes every time that leaks have sprung here and sprung there."

The incident marked the first time Dean had been summoned before Nixon to make a progress report on the cover-up. It occurred Sept. 15, 1972, the same day the original seven defendants were indicted by a grand jury. Also at the meeting was former White House chief-of-staff H. R. Haldeman.

During the conversation, Nixon discussed using the FBI and other federal agencies for political revenge during his second term, a move Dean called "an exciting prospect."

The contents of the 32-minute tape had been disclosed previously in a limited White House version and later by the House Judiciary Committee.

Before the tape was played, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica turned down repeated defense objections to both the use of transcripts and the verification of the voices by Dean, now serving a minimum one-year prison term for obstruction of justice in the cover-up.

Many passages on the tape could not be understood except as related on the transcript.

In one reference, to a civil suit then pending as a result of the break-in, Dean referred to US. District Judge Charles Richey as a man "not known to be one of the intellects on the bench."

Nixon then commented that Richey acts "in his own stupid way."

More than 100 persons, including Sirica, were issued a set of olive-grey sponge earphones dispensed from supermarket carts wheeled through the aise by lawyers from the prosecutors' staff.

Public Access Bill Vetoed By President

ts to "the initial classification decision in sensitive and complex areas where they have no expertise."

He also questioned the time constraints in the bill by which agencies would have to comply within a certain period of time to requests for information.

The President said that he intended to submit shortly proposals which he felt would dispel his concerns regarding the manner of judicial review of classified material, and "for mitigating the administrative burden placed on the agencies, especially our law enforcement agencies, by the bill as presently enrolled."

Ford said the present bill "is unconstitutional and unworkable," but that the legislation has "laudable goals" and he hopes that it will be re-enacted during this session of Congress with the changes he proposes.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in a statement that the veto "is a distressing new example of the Watergate mentality that still pervades the White House."

"The bill now vetoed by the President was a major effort by Congress to insure that the public's business is carried out in public, and I will work to see that Congress over-rides the veto when it returns from the current recess," Kennedy said.

The legislation amended the 1966 Freedom of Information Act.

Under it, federal courts would have had power to go behind a secrecy stamp and see if documents were classified properly by an agency.

Government agencies would have been given 10 days to determine whether to furnish a requested document and 30 days to respond to lawsuits. Ford said that the time limits were unrealistic.

On court inspection of classified documents, he said as the legislation now stands "a determination by the secretary of defense that disclosure of a document would endanger our national security would, even though reasonable, have to be overturned by a district judge who thought a plaintiff's position just as reasonable."

Rockefeller's Wife Has Breast Removed

operation was over, she replied weakly: "Thank goodness." Rockefeller told Dr. Urban and his associates: "Thank you, and thank God!"

"She recuperated fantastically rapidly," said Dr. Urban, who cut away Mrs. Rockefeller's entire left breast, as well as the lymph nodes in the left armpit, but left a major portion of the chest muscle intact. She is expected to leave the hospital in about a week.

Earlier, Rockefeller had quoted the hospital as telling him that if the cancer had invaded the lymph nodes, his wife had a 70 per cent chance of recovery. If it had not, the chances rose to 90 per cent.

According to Urban, it was about a week after Mrs. Ford's operation that Mrs. Rockefeller discovered a lump on her left breast. Rockefeller said this was the first hint of any trouble, describing his wife as hitherto "very strong, very healthy."

After a breast X-ray, Urban said Mrs. Rockefeller consulted him and on his advice entered the hospital Wednesday for the surgery.

He added that the results of the breast X-ray were suspicious rather than definite, and that the two-week time lapse presumably occurred because Mrs. Rockefeller was "trying to make up her mind."

"As just one more family, we're just very grateful that it led to a checkup," Rockefeller said, referring to his wife's discovery of the breast lump.

The operation got under way at 8:30 a.m. and was concluded about noon. The doctors said they discovered three cancerous nodules about the size of the tip of a little finger in the breast and its surrounding tissue during the mastectomy.

"The coincidence is almost unbelievable," President Ford told a group of Spanish-speaking leaders at the White House, in reference to Mrs. Rockefeller's operation which so closely resembled his own wife's.

Rockefeller told President Ford several days ago that his wife was facing a biopsy, because of suspected breast cancer.

Richard Burton To Wed Princess

LONDON (UPI) — Actor Richard Burton, expressing regret he had been forced into a premature announcement, said Thursday he hoped to marry Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, a relative of the British royal family, "as soon as possible."

The fact that Burton was more than a casual escort of the 37-year-old princess — one of a number of women he has been seen with since his divorce from Elizabeth Taylor — became known after their return from Paris where he was introduced over the weekend to her parents, Prince and Princess Paul of Yugoslavia.

They are members of the Karageorgevitch Dynasty which has blood links with the British royal family. Princess Elizabeth is the first cousin of Princess Alexandra of Kent and second cousin to Prince Charles, heir to the throne, and Princess Anne. She is also the wife of merchant banker Neil Balfour, 32, defeated Conservative Party candidate for Parliment in last week's election.

Burton told reporters at the door of his Hampstead mansion he had hoped his romance with the princess would have been permitted to progress without the front-page publicity that greeted the news they had gone to Paris together.

"We did not want this sudden explosion of publicity," he said, "and we both hope this will not have repercussions on those we both love."

Burton clearly meant Miss Taylor, with whom he said he was still in love in an interview last month, and her children. Princess Elizabeth undoubtedly had in mind her husband. She had helped him campaign in his futile bid for parliamentary seat.

"We are going to get married," Burton said.

Woman Knows Her Rights, Wins Battle Against Traffic Fine

Sandra Fry, Saylor's Mill Road, Spring City, came out on the losing end financially after fighting a $15 traffic fine from Limerick Township Police recently.

But it was worth the money for the 27-year old newspaper delivery woman to prove her innocence in a court case termed "ridiculous" by Judge Richard S. Lowe, Montgomery County Court.

Mrs. Fry was attempting to collect $48 from a delinquent customer in Limerick Township when she entered a street marked "local traffic only."

Because she was going to a house in that block, she assumed she was in her rights. After all, the milkman and breadman were allowed to go through, she pointed out.

But a woman who lives on the street reported Mrs. Fry, and the delivery woman received a $5 fine in the mail.

Confident of her innocence, she took the matter to the district justice, who found her guilty and charged her not only the $5 fine, but an additional $10 in costs.

Mrs. Fry knew hiring a lawyer would be far more costly than just paying the $15 and letting the matter lie, but she was determined to prove her innocence.

"It was worth it to me," she said. "The more I thought about it, the more upset I got."

"I've gone on other closed roads," she noted," and never had a problem. I don't use it for a throughway. I got to the house, deliver my papers, turn around and go out."

Judge Lowe, who heard the testimony of the woman who reported the incident, the Limerick policeman who issued the ticket, and Mrs. Fry, found her not guilty, and remarked on the fact that such a case was ever brought to court.

Milton O. Moss, Montgomery County District Attorney, pointed out the police department made the determination and the appeal was filed. After the district justice found Mrs. Fry guilty, Moss said, it was not the place of the district attorney to substitute his judgment for that of the district justice.

As for Mrs. Fry, she's content and glad she decided to fight. Her only problem now is collecting the $49.

Pottstown Schools Will Open Hour Later on Monday

day.

Officials of St. Peter's Elementary School decided to begin their classes an hour later, thereby making it possible for its students to continue to travel by bus.

Students of St. Gabriel's Parochial School will have transportation provided them and there will be no change in the transportation schedule.

According to Derr, students of the Wyndcroft School will not be affected by the change, and school bus stops at their school bus stops at the regular time.

The regular schedule will prevail also for special education students who attend classes either in Spring City or Franklin Elementary School.

Boyertown Bank Branch May Open In Pottstown

The National Bank of Boyertown filed an application with the comptroller of the currency requesting permission to open a branch in downtown Pottstown, according to James K. Boyer, president.

It would be located at High and Franklin street, on the site of a former Mobil service station, which was boarded up and chained off after it went out of business a year ago.

If the bank receives permission, it would be the second bank at that intersection, with Philadelphia National Bank's branch across Franklin street.

Boyer said the bank is interested in opening a branch in Pottstown to better serve the many customers in the borough. The nearest branch is on East High street in Lower Pottsgrove.

The bank Tuesday opened its eighth branch, located in a temporary mobile unit in Mertztown, Berks County, until a permanent structure can be erected next year.

Other branches are in Bally, Douglassville, Exeter, New Hanover, Oley and its main office in Boyertown, which will host an open house Oct. 26 and 27.

The bank also announced its intention to acquire Kutztown National Bank, pending approval by shareholders.

Employes Will Hear Candidates

Three Democratic candidates for public office will address employes of the Norco Mall Sears, Roebuck Co. 9 a.m. today as part of a national "Good Citizenship" program of the mail order and retail chain.

And next week, according to Gene Szklarz, store manager, Republican candidates will be invited to take their turn.

Louise Daniels, an employe of the store's personnel department who is coordinating the political rallies, said they are being scheduled for 9 a.m. because that is an hour before the store opens.

"We expect there will be at least 100 employes on hand to hear the candidates," she said, "noting coffee and doughnuts will be served at the rally."

The rally will take place in the store's shoe department, a traditional gathering place for employes when Sears' conferences are held.

Scheduled to appear are Leo D. McDermott, Chester County commissioner and Democratic candidate for the 5th District seat in Congress; Samuel W. Morris, incumbent Democratic member of the State House of Representatives from the 155th District, and Fred Martin, mayor of the Chester County borough of Modena and his party's candidate for the State House of Representatives from the 13th Legislative District.

Mrs. Daniels said the full slate of Republican candidates to appear next Friday hasn't been completed, "... has accepted the invitation."

Three Youths Injured in Area Crash

Three area teen-agers were injured early Thursday, and one of them was hospitalized, after a one-car crash in East Vincent Township.

Taken to Phoenixville Hospital by West End ambulance were:

●Julie Grover, 16, 259 Stony Run Road, Spring City; admitted for treatment of a fractured arm and multiple lacerations. Hospital officials described her condition as satisfactory.

●J. Timothy Ash, 15, 1345 Miller Road, North Coventry, treated for lacerations and abrasions and released.

●Terry Springer, 16, Spring City RD 1, treated for lacerations and abrasions and released.

Springer, who was driving the sedan in which the other two were riding, was going north of Route 23 in East Vincent Township, when he failed to negotiate a curve, ran off the road and hit a utility pole, according to state police, Embreeville.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $200, police said.
